FRANCE TO TAKE PART IN PARLEY WITH RUSSIANS

Delegates Will Withdraw, However, if Political Questions are Injected into the Discussion, Announces Paris

KRASSIN SEES EARLY RESUMPTION OF RELATIONS WITH THE U. S.

Dealing With America to Build up Russian Industry Urged by Moscow Paper

THE HAGUE.—By The Associated Press.—The official notice from France that she would take part in the conference with the Russians here greeted the delegates as they assembled Monday for the firsa session for the week. No meeting of the conference was held Monday morning, the day's session being set for afternoon.

France to Take Part

PARIS.—By The Associated Press.—France will take part in the conference at The Hague with the Russian delegates beginning June 26, it was officially announced at the foreign office this morning. If political questions are introduced however, the French delegates will promptly withdraw.

The French government it was explained, has reached its decision without waiting for further developments in the preliminary meetings there, in order to eliminate the possibility that further delay might be interpreted as obstructive tactics.

They will abide closely, it is stated, to the French contention that the soviet authorities must recognize the principle of respecting foreign owned private property and the payment of foreign debts.

See Agreement With U. S.

MOSCOW.—By Associated Press.—Leonid Krassin, addressing a conference of the Russian foreign trade department, of which he is the head, voiced the belief that official relations between Russia and the United States were not far off.

Coincidentally, the newspaper Pravda advocates dealing with America to build up the Russian industry.

Declaring that Russian wells now produce only 560,000,000 poods (about ten million tons) annually, the newspaper declares that within three or four years, with the assistance of American oil experts the output could be increased to three billion poods (about 54,000,000 tons) two-thirds of which would be available for the export to America.

It adds: "Commissioners like Lloyd George, and Barthou are trying to get our oil supply to resell it to America, but we want to deal direct."

Mr. Krassin in his address reiterated that the government would not surrender its monopoly on foreign trade. The conference was called however, to simplify trading through the government.

Nothing to It Says Washington

WASHINGTON.—By the Associated Press. — Suggestions in Moscow that resumption at an early date of official relations of any character between the U. S. and Russia is a possibility, found no support in Washington. The last word of the Washington administration on that subject was said very plainly when Secretary Hughes wrote declining an invitation extended by the Genoa conference to participate in the present economic discussions of the Russian conditions at The Hague. Nothing has transpired since that time to change the situation so far as the American government is concerned in any way.

GOVERNMENT INTERVENTION IN COAL STRIKE ASKED OF HARDING BY U. S. CHURCHES

Calling of National Coal Conference and Probe of Coal Industry Urged in Appeal Delivered to the President by Church Mission Monday

WASHINGTON.—President Harding was asked today to take steps to end the coal strike in a joint appeal presented to him by the Commission on the Church and Social Service of the Federal Council of Churches, with which are affiliated thirty great protestant communions, the Department of Social Action of the National Catholic Welfare Council and the Social Justice Commission of the Central Conference of American Rabbis. This is the first time, as far as is known, that these representative organizations of Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews have taken joint action in an industrial matter. The churches in their appeal asked the President

To call a national coal conference.

To get the facts of the coal industry through a government investigation.

Not to wait until the suffering of women and children of the mining camps has become a national calamity, and

To end the coal strike now.

The statement expresses gratification that the press, as a whole has been successful in recording the facts in the strike. The appeal of the churches in full is as follows:

"To the President of the United States:

"We desire to express to you, on behalf of the three great religious organizations that we represent, our conviction that the time has arrived when our government should act to bring about a conference in the bituminous coal industry to end the present strike. We believe that the majority of the people of this country are unwilling to have its vitally important industries subject to combat as a means of settling disputes.

Intervention is Proper

"Whenever either disputant in a controversy declines to employ the methods of conference and arbitration, it becomes proper for the government to intervene. It is inconceivable that public action should wait until the sufferings of women and children in mining towns should have reached the proportions of a national calamity.

"On March 31, 1922, representatives of the Commission on the church and Social Service of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, and the Department of Social Action of the National Catholic Welfare Council, put before you a resolution adopted by their respective bodies urging government action looking toward the settlement of the coal controversy. At that time it was pointed out that the operators in the central competitive field, comprising Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and western Pennsylvania, had pledged themselves two years previously to confer with the union in order to negotiate a new contract. We wish to express our approval of the action of the administration in publicly fixing responsibility for the failure of such a conference upon certain of the coal operators who were unwilling to be governed by the terms of their agreement. Our resolution further called the attention to lack of accurate information concerning the facts necessary to a just settlement of the controversy and urged that a thorough investigation of the industry should be made by federal authority.

Half Million Men Idle

"The administration at that time did not feel warranted in taking action, beyond the issuance of the statement to which we have referred. No conference was held, the strike ensued, and it has now continued through ten weeks. Exclusive of the anthracite fields where conferences are still in progress, there are not far from half a million men idle in the industry.

"The strike has been more extensive than was anticipated since the miners in several non-union fields made common cause with the United Mine Workers. Following a period of intense business depression, the strike has caused much suffering to the miners' families, and this suffering is rapidly increasing.

"It is a matter of profound satisfaction that the strike has been remarkably orderly. We have also been gratified to record the facts of this conflict. Nevertheless, nothing effectual has been done to bring it to an end.

"In spite of the desire of the government to avoid interference in the controversy, it has become necessary for the secretary of commerce to request the operators in the non-union fields, and the retailers, not to take undue advantage of the situation by excessively increasing the price of coal. This action, manifestly necessary under the circumstances, nevertheless serves to show the helplessness of the nation and the increasing danger to the public in the face of so great an industrial struggle. The coal reserves are being steadily depleted; the suffering of the miners and their families is becoming more acute and the bitterness attendant upon the conflict will inevitably increase.

"We therefore are impelled to urge once more that the government take steps to end the coal strike by bringing the operators and miners into conference. Since the failure of early attempts at securing a conference according to precedent in the central competitive field, and the consequent suspension of mining in the union fields, unprecedented importance has been given to those fields in which the miners have not joined the strike, and where operators and miners are enjoying a temporary advantage because of the strike in the union fields. This setting of one section of the industry and one portion of the country over against another, makes for instability, insecurity, discontent, and bitterness.

"For this reason we urge that unless the operators and miners in the

INDICT WEST POINT GRAD FOR SENDING ARMS TO IRELAND

Head of Ordnance Company Held on Charge of Violation of Neutrality Laws

ACCUSED MAN IS SON OF THE INVENTOR OF THOMPSON GUN

Has 17-Year Army Record With Active Service in A. E. F.

TRENTON, N. J.—Colonel Marcellus H. Thompson, vice president and active head of the Auto-ordinance company of New York, has been indicted by the federal grand jury here on a charge of conspiracy to ship arms to Ireland in violation of the neutrality laws. The announcement was made Monday by Assistant United States District Attorney Arrowsmith.

Indictments also have been returned against the Auto-ordinance company and seven other individuals on the same charge, as the result of the seizure at Hoboken last June of the Cosmopolitan line freighter East Side, in the coal bunkers of which were found 459 machine guns. The guns were alleged to have been destined for use by Sinn Feiners in Ireland.

West Point Graduate

NEW YORK.—Lieutenant Colonel Marcellus H. Thompson, son of the inventor of the Thompson gun, and son-in-law of Ambassador Harvey, is a West Point graduate with a 17-year army record, including active service in the American expeditionary forces.

In the A. E. F., Colonel Thompson was with the 51st Coast artillery in charge of heavy guns behind the lines. He resigned from the military service in December, 1919, and later became head of the auto-ordnance company of New York.

TWELVE HUNDRED LEPERS REPORTED AT LARGE IN U. S.

WASHINGTON.—A recent survey by the United States public health service showed there were 1,200 lepers at large in 25 states, Dr. C. H. Lavender, assistant surgeon general announced in a statement Monday. The only leper sanitarium maintained by the federal government, located at Carville, La., is limited to 200 and is now filled to capacity, Dr. Lavender said and the impracticability of states or cities owning institutions of the kind results in hundreds of lepers being at large with the risk of communicating the disease to others.

HORSE COMES INTO CONTACT WITH LIVE WIRE; 3 ARE KILLED

NORTH ANSON, Me.— A woman and two men were electrocuted today as the result of a horse coming in contact with a charged wire in a pool of water. A guy wire in the mill-yard of the North Anson Manufacturing company was crossed by a high tension wire and the horse driven by Ora Pullen struck it. Pullen was killed in going to the aid of the animal, and Mrs. Thomas Moran and Warren Nutting met death when they stepped into the water to assist Pullen.

WOMAN ELECTED MAYOR

IOWA CITY, Iowa.—Mrs. Emma Harvat, for the past fifteen months an alderman at large, was unanimously elected mayor of Iowa City, Monday morning, at a special session of the city council. She succeeds Ingalls Swisher, who resigned Sunday following his dismissal Saturday of Mike Malone as chief of police.

DARWINISM FLAYED BY WM. J. BRYAN AT ONALASKA SUNDAY

Every Problem Facing World Today Must be Solved in Moral Way

PLEA IS MADE FOR RETURN TO LIVING IN GOD'S WAY

Democratic Chieftan Speaker at Chautauqua

PLEADING for a life, lived in the way of God, and bitterly assailing Darwinism, William Jennings Bryan held an audience that packed the chautauqua tent Sunday at Onalaska to overflowing spellbound by his consummate oratory, forcefulness, logic and plain, every day language. For nearly an hour and a half he spoke with scarcely a pause and the tentful of people seemed to hang on his every word. He was introduced by John Berg, who paid high tribute to Mr. Bryan's long life in the public eye. At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Bryan was rushed to North La Crosse by Abel Moore, where he took a Milwaukee train for another chautauqua speaking engagement.

"Every problem facing the world today has to be solved in a moral way," said Mr. Bryan. "The taxation question was never so acute as it is today. There never was a time when so deep a division existed between the big incomes and the little incomes as to the justice of levying taxes. In the industrial field there never has been a time since the birth of Christ when there has been the conflict between the two classes, labor and capital, and the development of so much class consciousness as today.

80 Bodies Out to Beat Prohibition

"Then there is law enforcement. Never have we had so many people organized to prevent law enforcement as we have today. There are 30 organizations at work to beat prohibition and they have a larger majority than has elected any president since the war (Civil War) or voted for any great economic measure. But we are out to get the bootlegger and the man who is worse than the bootlegger, the man who patronizes him, and makes the bootlegger possible.

"And another thing, I don't believe we should have any nations telling us when we should go to war. I would like to see the United States send representatives to Europe to tell them to find a way of ending war and to take the $11,000,000,000 they owe us; it would be worth it to end war.

"How much can a man collect from society? As much as he can earn. And how much is that? As much as he can honestly earn. Do you believe it is possible for a man to earn $100,000 in a working life of 33 1-3 years? Or a $1,000,000? Or $100,000,000? Or $500,000,000. I do. I believe it is within the range of human possibility to earn that much money.

"I have in mind two men who could have earned or who were worth those figures. I mean Jefferson and Lincoln. What should have been the earnings of the man who invented the steam engine, who discovered electricity, invented the phonograph and the wireless?

Lauds Greatness of Radio

"Of all the great things that man has drawn from the treasure chest of God, I believe the greatest is the radiophone. Recently I spoke in Pittsburg and a radiophone caught my words and hurled them out into space. They were carried broadcast over 25,000,000 square miles of space. Later, the pastor of the church in which I spoke received 2,000 letters from places as remote as Porto Rico, Honduras, California and Canada, from people who had 'listened in' and heard my speech. A few days afterward I was in the Westinghouse plant and the superintendent told me that in eight minutes my voice had reached the sun and would keep on going into space. I don't know how far away it is now.

"How much should the man earn who invented the gas engine, the ice making machine and the sewing machine? How much should have Columbus earned? Or the man who discovered the typhoid fever remedy? The man who orginated the Y. M. C. A.? What do you suppose Francis Willard should have earned? There is no way to raise human endeavor to its maximum unless a man draws from society a proportionate reward for his services. The great difficulty today is that people are thinking too much of what they can get out of the world without doing the world a real service.

Get Back to God's Way

"What is the greatest need today? It is to get back to God's way, to a whole-minded, whole-souled love of God. This love of God is the very foundation on which all in life depends. The sense of the responsibility to God is the greatest influence in the world, if it were eliminated there wouldn't be any foundation for society to rest upon.

"If there is no God there can be no Bible. The Bible has done more for civilization than all the other books ever printed. If all the other books in the world were to be destroyed but one, I would say to save

TARIFF TAKES PRIORITY OVER SOLDIER BONUS

Senate Republicans Reject Plan to Lay Aside Tariff Legislation to Consider Bonus Bill

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE ABSENT FROM REPUBLICAN CONFERENCE

Democrats May Attempt to Overturn Program of the Republicans

WASHINGTON—Senate republicans, in conference Monday, voted 20 to 9 against laying aside the tariff bill to consider the soldiers' bonus.

A resolution favoring final disposition of both the tariff bill and the bonus measure at this session and before any recess then was adopted 27 to 11. The bonus measure would be made the unfinished business after a final vote on the tariff.

Chairman McCumber of the finance committee, who has charge of both pieces of legislation, made a final effort to put the bonus ahead, but his motion mustered only nine votes. He also was author of the resolution proposing final disposition of the tariff with the bonus then to be made the unfinished business of the senate. This resolution was opposed by eleven republicans counted as opponents for the adjusted compensation measure.

La Follette Absent

A number of republican senators, including Johnson of California and La Follette, Wisconsin, who favor speedy action on the bonus, absented themselves from the conference. A number of democratic senators also desire early disposition of the soldiers' bonus and it may be that a movement may be made on the floor to over-ride the program of the republicans which has the approval of President Harding.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, after learning of the action of the republican conference, said a move to bring up the bonus would be made in the senate after the passage of the pending naval appropriation bill.

NORWAY ASKS DAMAGES FOR SHIPS TAKEN BY THE U. S. DURING THE WAR

WASHINGTON.— Former Senator George Sutherland of Utah discussed Monday with President Harding arbitration matters between the U. S. and Norway arising out of the wartime seizure by the United States of ships under construction in American yards for Norwegian citizens.

As the damages for the seizure, the Norwegian government, in behalf of its citizens, have asked $16,000,000 from the U. S. and during the negotiations, the U. S. has offered to pay $3,000,000 in liquidating damages to the Norwegians who would have owned the ships had the construction been allowed to proceed in their behalf. The difference between the amounts suggested has induced the shipping board and the state department to place the entire question on trial at The Hague.

PAYS $56.82 FINE FOR DRIVING WHILE INTOXICATED HERE

Frank Howard, Westby, was fined $56.82 in police court Monday morning on a charge of driving his Dodge automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Howard was arrested Sunday afternoon after he had run into and crippled the auto of Charles Schlutter on South Fifth street. Schlutter's machine had a fender bent, it was said.

ALUMNI WOULD KEEP HARVARD FREE FROM RACE DISCRIMINATION

NEWARK, N. J.—Harvard alumni will set their faces against any discrimination in race or color, the annual conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was told Monday by Moorefield Storey, noted lawyer and Harvard graduate. He said many prominent alumni would endeavor to keep Harvard the democratic institution it was founded.

EMPLOYERS TO MEET

Call was issued Monday for a meeting of the La Crosse Employers' association at the Chamber of Commerce at 7:45 tonight. Announcement was made that steps will be taken at this meeting to make the organization permanent and increase the membership.

POLICE ARREST TWO ALLEGED BAD CHECK MEN HERE SUNDAY

Edward Sauer, La Crosse, and William Carter, Milwaukee, Held Here

CARTER ATTEMPTS TO PASS CHECK AT CHAMBERLAIN PLACE

Signs Name of Peter Newburg to $20 Check

TWO alleged bogus check men were arrested by the local police and are being held at Central station as a result of activities in the city over Saturday and Sunday, according to a statement of the police Monday morning.

Edward Sauer of this city, was picked up by Officer Thompson Sunday night at the Standard Restaurant after he had attempted to pass two checks, police said, and another man registered at a local hotel under the name of William Carter, Milwaukee, was arrested after attempting to pass a check bearing the name of Peter Newburg for $20 at Willam Chamberlain's place at Second and Pearl streets, according to the police.

Checks on Local Bank

Sauer, it was learned, had two checks of $24.50 and $5.20 on the State bank here, both of which were refused at the Lotus cafe. He was arrested at the Standard lunch room later where he had presented the $5.20 check for cash, but was refused. Sauer carried on his person three cancelled checks from a San Antonio, Texas bank. After searching him police found a letter from that bank stating that his account there had been overdrawn. Police stated that Sauer cashed two checks, one for $3 and another for $14, at the Rent-a-Ford company on Third street Saturday night when he rented a machine saying he wanted to make a trip to Winona. He left his $24.50 check on the State bank in security until he returned. The two checks passed have not come in as yet, police said.

Police also said that Sauer passed a check at the Haraldson Shoe shop on the north side, but the amount was not stated.

Forges Newburg's Name

William Carter presented a $20 check to which Peter Newburg's name was signed at William Chamberlain's place Saturday night, police said. Carter, it was said, explained to Chamberlain that he had a large check which he had been unable to cash and had left it with Peter Newburg, who in turn gave him a personal check for $20, evidently to "tide" him over until the larger check could be cashed on Monday.

Upon investigation police found that Newburg had not issued a personal check to any one Sunday. Chamberlain, it was said, forfeited $10 on the check to Carter. The check was made payable to William Barnes.

Both men are being held at Central station pending further investigation.

HARDING AND PARTY BACK AFTER CRUISE DOWN THE POTOMAC

WASHINGTON.— President and Mrs. Harding and their guests on a week-end cruise down the Potomac on the Mayflower, turned to Washington Monday.

The president immediately went to the executive offices and started on a long list of appointments, including a call by a committee of churchmen to present a memorial on the coal strike and a visit by Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador, to say farewell before leaving Washington to spend the summer at home.

DENIES CHARGES OF COMBINE OF ROADS BANKS AND INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON.—Existence of "a combination" of banking, railroad and industrial interests dominating industry and deflating labor, charged recently by W. Jett Lauck, representative of railroad unions, was denied before the senate interstate commerce committee Monday by another railroad executive. L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson. The same charges were denied a fortnight ago before the committee by Daniel Willard, chairman of the Baltimore & Ohio board.

JESUIT TREASURE FOUND AT BOTTOM OF CANADIAN RIVER

PENETANGUISHENE, Ant.—The Golden treasures of the Jesuits, lost for 300 years, have been located, according to Captain Robert Carson, in charge of the hunt beneath the Wye river. The treasure rests on the edge of the great hole dredged in the bottom of the river, Captain Carson said, and was found Sunday. He believed the chest with its golden altar vestments and manuscripts telling of the early history of Canada would be brought to the surface today.

RAIL CHIEFS AWAIT STRIKE VOTE OF MEN

Executives Marking Time in Rail War While Workers are Engaged in Marking Ballots

HOOPER PREDICTS PEACEFUL ADJUSTMENT OF DIFFERENCES

Harding to Back up Wage Reductions of the Federal Rail Labor Board

CHICAGO, Ill.—Railroad chiefs were marking time Monday while employes of the roads were marking strike ballots. By July 1, the date $136,000,000 in wage cuts ordered by the United States railroad labor board become effective, the strike referendum will be completed and the nation will probably know whether it faces an actual rail strike and a threatened transportation war.

Developments of the last twenty-four hours included:

A statement by Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the railroad labor board, predicting an adjustment of the railroad situation without a strike and peace on the roads by next fall.

Statements to the board leaders of the rail unions condemning the wage reductions and serving notice that a strike, if favored in the referendum, will be sanctioned by the union chiefs.

Harding to Back Board

Word from Washington that President Harding intends to back the board, which has no power itself under the transportation act, to enforce its decisions.

Gradual abandonment by the carriers of their system of putting work out at contract, a system which has been one of the barriers to peace, was predicted by Mr. Hooper.

The strike referendum is expected to be completed by next Sunday, five days in advance of the wage reductions. Early balloting and tabulation of the returns was urged by B. M. Jewell, head of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor, so the employed can be advised of the result by the time the pay checks go under the pruning knife, July 1.

Lewis Predicts Victory

CINCINNATI, Ohio.—By The Associated Press.—Three factors will win victory for the miners and railway men in a common strike, it was predicted Monday by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who will meet Tuesday night with rail union chiefs, to consider joint strike action in the threatened rail walkout of approximately 1,000,000 men.

Joining of forces of these organizations, Mr. Lewis said, would first have a marked moral influence on labor generally; second, would dislocate the transportation system of the nation, and third, would affect the industrial fabric.

Coincidentally with the statement of Mr. Lewis, ten railroad union presidents made public last night a letter to the labor board announcing their intention of going through with the strike in the event one is authorized by the vote of the union's members. B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employes' department, stated that the vote being cast so far has been overwhelmingly for a walkout.

APPLICATIONS HERE FOR 1922 HUNTERS; GET YOURS EARLY

Applications for hunting licenses for the season of 1922 have been received by County Clerk Staats. The applications must be filled out by the applicant for a license and sworn to before a notary public and then taken to the county clerk before a license will be issued. Mr. Staats asks that hunters obtain these blanks early in order that they may have their licenses when the season opens. Those who seek applications and licenses at the same time will in all probability be subjected to inconvenience and delay. Licenses will be $1 and deer tags 25 cents each, one to each hunter. The state conservation commission is enforcing the application rule this year. It has been the law for some time but has not been strictly enforced until this year.

U. S. "DEVIL DOGS" TAKE POSSESSION OF NATIONAL CAPITAL

WASHINGTON.—The nation's capital capitulated Monday without the firing of a shot to five thousand marines who entered the city before noon and pitched their tents along the Potomac.

Under command of Brig.-Gen. Butler, the marines are enroute to Gettysburg, where the famous battle of the Civil war will be re-enacted July 3 and 4. President Harding will review the "Devil Dogs" in the white house grounds late Monday.

CONTESTS EXPECTED IN ELECTIONS FOR COUNCIL OF A. F. L.

Fight also on for Election of Delegates to British Trade Union Congress

LAWYERS TO DIRECT LABOR FIGHT ON COURT RULING

Experts Called in as Advisors to Policy Committee

CINCINNATI, Ohio.—By The Associated Press.—Prospects of a second contest in the election of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor at its convention here, loomed up Monday as a movement got under way for William Clarke of Toledo, president of the American Flint Glass Workers' union, to contest the re-election of Frank Morrison as secretary.

No contest for nine places on the council, which is headed by President Gompers, was in sight Monday. In addition to the two prospective contests for places on the council, a fight was on for election of two delegates to the British trade union congress.

Despite the big program of work ahead, the delegates were planning to adjourn early one day so they might move across the Ohio river into Newport, Ky., where a strike of steel workers has been on since last October. Plans for the "invasion" call for a mass meeting to be addressed by Samuel Gompers.

Another important development, aside from the convention proper, came when a half score of lawyers from all parts of the country gathered here to guide the federation's special policy committee in framing a program for combatting the supreme court's decision in the Coronado coal case which held labor unions subject to damages under the Sherman anti-trust law.

BOYS WILL HELP HARVEST CHERRY CROP THIS YEAR

Eight hundred boys from the state of Wisconsin will help harvest the exceptionally large cherry crop at Sturgeon Bay this summer. Under the auspices of the state Y. M. C. A. lads from sixty different towns enjoy their vacation by having a camping experience and at the same time are able to more than earn their expenses by picking cherries during the daytime. Already applications have been received from all parts of the state for this year's camps, which will mark the fifth season.

Three large camps will be operated by the state Y. M. C. A. this summer, splendidly equipped throughout the Fruit Growers' association. Shower baths, electric lights, etc., make camp life attractive while the supervision by Christian men who are interested in boys, make complete a worth while camping experience.

SOUTHERN VETERANS GATHER AT RICHMOND FOR ANNUAL REUNION

Fifty Thousand Attend Convention of Confederate Soldiers and Auxiliary Bodies

RICHMOND, Va.—By The Associated Press.—Richmond Monday welcomed survivors of the confederate armies, their families and friends, estimated to number about 50,000 visitors, here to attend the 32nd annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans' and Auxiliary organizations. Those who wore the gray in 1861-65, now numbering not more than 4,000 were bivouaced in Richmond homes.

Younger visitors were lodged in hotels and public buildings provided with hundreds of army cots loaned by the war department.

The reunion program will begin late Monday with the annual convention of the Confederate Southern Memorial association, followed by the opening session of the Sons of Confederate Veterans when the sponsors, maids of honor and chaperons will be presented by Senator Harrison of Mississippi. Governor Trinkle and Mayor Ainslie will deliver the addresses of welcome to the sons Monday night and will greet the old soldiers Tuesday.

LICENSE REQUIRED FOR THE PRACTICE OF OPTOMETRY IN STATE

MADISON, Wis.—Every person who engages in the practice of optometry in Wisconsin must be a registered optometrist, J. F. Baker, assistant attorney general held Monday in an opinion to C. D. Waugh, secretary of the Wisconsin board of examiners.

He advised that attempts of some optometrists to let unregistered assistants to do actual work which they "applied ahdent treatment," would not satisfy the statute. All of the work in optometry must be done by a person qualified under the statute he held.

WILD ANIMAL CIRCUS HERE NEXT WEEK

No matter what engagements you may have made for June 28 the day and date that Patterson's Trained Wild Animal Circus" will exhibit in La Crosse, break them now. Even if you cannot attend the afternoon or evening performance you can not afford to miss viewing the gorgeous street parade at 10 a. m. and the thrilling free out of doors exhibition to be given immediately afterwards on the show grounds and again at 6:30 p. m.. CHICAGO, Ill.—Physicians, hospital attendants and friends of Harold F. McCormick, chairman of the executive board of the International Harvester company, still were pledged to secrecy concerning the operation which Mr. McCormick underwent last week.

All persons who have been at Mr. McCormick's bedside refused to comment on widely published reports that the operation was for transplantation of glands.

SUMMER SCHOOL AT BADGER UNIVERSITY OPENS ON JUNE 26

Attendance Will Exceed Four Thousand Mark of Last Year Predicts Director

MADISON, Wis.—Summer school at the University of Wisconsin will open June 26 with an enrollment which Scott H. Goodnight, director, believes will exeed that of last year, when more than 4,000 students were in attendance.

The natural attractions of Madison with its four lakes and varied opportunities for pleasure, as well as the extensive courses offered by the university, have attracted a growing number of summer students during the past few years.

Practically the same courses and as varied a curriculum is offered during the six week's course during July and August, as during the regular school year. Most of the students taking advantage of his opportunity for study are teachers working for advanced degrees or specializing in particular branches of learning.

POLICE CHIEFS IN MEETING IN FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—Police chiefs numbering about 400 were here Monday for the opening of the twenty-ninth annual convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs. Subects to be discussed included the establishment of a national bureau of identification at Washington under government supervision; passage of uniform vehicle laws and broadcasting of police information by radio.

W. P. Rutledge, superintendent of Detroit police will head the organization committee and chief A. A. Carroll of Grand Rapids, Mich., will be chairman of the miscellaneous committe.

LOOK FOR A SMALL VOTE IN MINNESOTA PRIMARY ELECTION

Vote Today Will Determine Effectiveness of New Party Convention Law

ST. PAUL, Minn.— Minnesota voters went to the polls Monday to nominate party candidates for the United States senate, congress and state officers, in a primary election that will determine to a large extent the effectiveness of the new party convention law.

Mrs. Anna Dickie Oleson of Cloquet is contesting with two men for the democratic senatorial nomination, and Senator F. B. Kellogg has two opponents in his race for renomination.

Representative Charles F. Davis of the Third district has active opposition in Reunen Thoreen of Stillwater in the republican congressional contest.

Ernest Lundeen of Minneapolis, former congressman, and Richard Titus, Minneapolis, are opposing Senator Kellogg, who has remained in Washington and publicly has taken no part in the campaign.

Mrs. Lillian Cox Gault, mayor of St. Peter, has no opposition for the democratic congressional nomination in the Third district.

A comparatively small vote is expected as interest has not been aroused as it was in the past two or three years, when the Nonpartisan league endorsed candidates sought to capture the republican nomination. This year the former league candidates generally are under the banner of the farmer-labor party whose slate is without a contest.

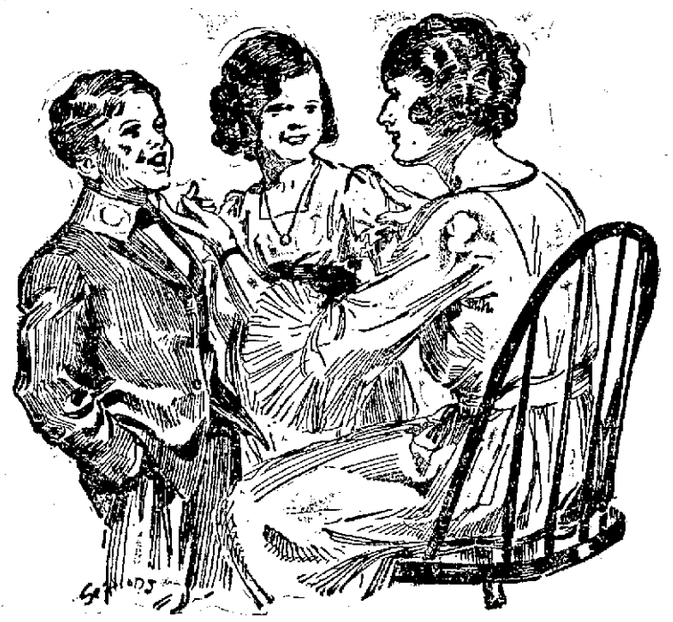
SERVICE IN LIBEL SUIT IS MADE ON SUNKEN STEAMER

PORTLAND, Ore.—To comply with a federal law which provides that service of a libel action against a steamer must be made "on the vessel," Everett T. Stretcher, chief deputy United States marshal for Oregon, went to Astoria Sunday, engaged a launch, traveled to the sunken wreck of the steamer Welsh Prince, and attached to a protruding top of the vessel's upper works a copy of a libel proceeding brought against the vessel by Konrad Kolm, a sailor. He is suing for $10,000 damages for injuries sustained when the Welsh Prince was sunk in collision with the Iowan.



Give It to Them—

This trial tube—watch their teeth improve

If you prefer, let your children make this test. Let them brush their teeth a few days in this modern way. Then look and see what film removal means.

This is a way to whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. Millions now employ it. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. Let someone in your home this week show the benefits it brings.

Why teeth look dingy

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. You can feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. It dims and may ruin teeth.

Ordinary tooth pastes do not effectively combat it. So film-coats have been almost universal.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film, and, despite the tooth brush, they have constantly increased.

Must remove it daily

Dental science has long been seeking a daily film combatant. Now two effective methods have been found. Authorities have proved them by many careful tests.

A new-day tooth paste has been perfected, to comply with modern requirements. And these two film combatants are embodied in it. The name of the tooth paste is Pepsodent.

Millions of people of some forty races now employ it daily, largely by dental advice.

Two other new effects

Pepsodent brings two other effects which authorities now deem essential.

It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's neutralizer for the acids which cause decay.

Every application gives these great tooth-protecting forces multiplied effect.

Real protection now

Now you can know what really clean teeth mean. Pepsodent fights film-coats, starch and acids—all the great tooth enemies. Then it leaves the mouth in normal alkaline condition. The glistening teeth you see everywhere now show something of the benefits it brings.

New beauty in a week

The Pepsodent effects are quickly seen and felt. This test will be a revelation to you.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Note the refreshing taste it leaves.

It will bring you prettier teeth, and quickly. But, more than that, it will bring you safer teeth. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

Fabulous Riches

THIRTY gold coins, of the first series of gold coins ever minted by man, are dug up by American archaeologists in the buried ruins of Sardis, ancient city in Asia Minor. These 30 coins were minted by Croesus, last of the kings of Lydia and first big international banker. You have heard the expression, "Rich as Croesus." John D. Rockefeller could buy and sell Croesus at least a dozen times over. Yet Croesus' name endures on through the ages as the greatest symbol of wealth, in all important languages. It was Croesus' ability in handling money, rather than his actual cash, that made his wealth proverbial. The psychology of this is that people are less interested in possessing wealth than in getting more. That was Croesus' way. He could start with a shoestring and keep trading until he had a million.

You see this principle at work in Henry Ford's appeal to the popular imagination. There are several men in the world with about as much money as Ford. Yet they are seldom heard of. Ford's wealth would not fire the average brain if he had inherited it. The glamour that surrounds his bank account is due to its being built up from practically nothing. Ford, you know, only a few years ago, ran a bicycle repair shop. People, in their mad scramble for wealth, are more interested in accumulating more and more than in reaching any definite fortune. When it comes to wealth, most of us are insane—with a pronounced wealthphobia.

Croesus became king when he was 35. This was in the sixth century B. C. He was a great conqueror and specialized at collecting tribute. Solon, famous Athenian sage and law-giver, was asked by Croesus: "Should not my vast wealth make me the happiest of men?" Solon answered that no man is really happy who is yet alive. This, of course, was ridiculous cynicism—the "sour grapes" line of Big Talk frequently heard from financial failures today. Socrates, the truly wise, if he had lived in Croesus' time and could have looked into the future 2500 years, would have said to Croesus: "Money and gold are not real wealth. Far ahead, in the year 1922, I see American workers. As far as money is concerned, you would call them impoverished. Yet they have porcelain bathtubs, automobiles, choice foods brought from the far corners of the earth, and thousands of other comforts and conveniences—the real wealth of life—denied to Croesus. And you, mighty Croesus, would give half your kingdom for a little device called a radio, which poor boys of the year 1922 will make for a few dollars."

Then and Now

MEN and times change. With them political issues change. Two years, however, is a short time for radical political changes. Therefore, those who take the trouble to compare the 1922 La Follette platform with the 1920 La Follette platform may be surprised to find striking and even fundamental differences between the two. In all there are nine changes, or material alterations. In almost every case the changes appear in the form of omissions from the 1922 platform of things contained in the 1920 platform.

Perhaps the most striking of these omissions relates to government ownership. The 1920 platform declared for "the ultimate public ownership of railroads and the gradual acquisition of stockyards, terminals, large packing plants, and all other natural resources, the private ownership of which is the basis of private monopoly." The 1922 platform is silent upon this subject.

The 1920 La Follette platform demanded the repeal of the personal property offset to income taxes. The 1922 platform is silent upon the subject.

The 1922 La Follette platform is silent as to farmer-labor representation on educational boards, whereas, the 1920 platform carried, in substance, the demand of the Nonpartisan platform for such representation. In his appointments Governor Blaine long ignored this demand and latterly has complied with it only in part.

The 1922 platform contains no specific commitment as to the democratization of education. The farmer-labor and Nonpartisan platforms in 1920 demanded junior colleges. The 1920 La Follette platform was interpreted as covering this point. Governor Blaine vetoed a junior college bill. Silence in the 1922 platform will be noted by farmer-labor and Nonpartisan leaders who deem it important.

The 1922 La Follette platform is selent as to the "eight hour day in industry," demanded in the 1920 La Follette platform.

In part it is necessary to run through two documents to make these comparisons, as some were contained in the platform of the La Follette presidential delegation, of which the La Follette state platform said, "We adhere to the principles of the progressive Republican platform of the La Follette delegates to the national Republican convention."

Comparing the 1922 La Follette platform with the 1920 Nonpartisan platform endorsed by Governor Blaine, we find the former has not drawn upon the latter for a demand for certain tax exemptions on improvements upon farm and city homes, nor for the declaration in favor of processes of taxation calculated to force into use idle lands held for speculative purposes. The Nonpartisan platform demand that it be established as a matter of law that state water power is state property is missing. The 1920 Nonpartisan platform demanded income tax exemptions of $1,200 for single persons and $3,000 for married. The La Follette platform of 1920 did not contain this specific demand, but in his message to the legislature, Governor Blaine asked for exemptions of $1,000 and $2,000 respectively.

Was the hand of the La Follette organization forced beyond its judgment by the Nonpartisan league in 1920, or has it actually changed its mind on these vitally important problems? Were they sound, or unsound? It is an interesting question. Perhaps the only answer is that "politics is politics."

A Synthetic Lover

By WILL T. AMES

Little Daisy Hemphill didn't "type" circus in the least. You look for her kind behind the soda fountain of a village drug store and think of pink and white checked gingham as having been inspirationally created for just her variety of prettiness. Nevertheless there was so very deep a strain of it in her blood that the night which witnessed the tragic derailment of the Hardenburg performers' train took away both her parents in one awful moment.

The All America show was already in winter quarters. Madame Felice Herbert, who had know "the Empillo duo, premier double bareback act," ever since Daisy was a child, and who had lived more than one winter in the sunny back room of their cottage in the All America's home town, threw up both arms and shrieked when Bob Sloan, boss of the paint shop, brought the terrible news into the wardrobe loft. Then she grabbed her hat, tore down two flights of steps, raced the entire 200 yards of trackage and exercise ground to the back gate, hailed a passing taxi and in six minutes was at Daisy's boarding house, holding the grief shaken orphan in her arms.

The only thing about Felice Herbert that was not utterly French was her accent—which simply didn't exist. The circus is a school of thrift, and there are few dull pupils among the tanbark folk; but the thrift of Mme. Herbert was an All American axiom. Yet, when the first dreadful days were over and Daisy came to the facing of the future a kinless orphan, it was only her own inherent sense of justice that prevented the hard working wardrobe woman from taking upon herself the place of both father and mother and maintaining Daisy through the final year of her high school course.

"But look here, child," expostulated Mme. Felice "haven't I been your mother's best friend for a dozen years ever since she first came to our show and, whether she's been with it or with some other? Haven't I watched you grow up from a little bit of a kid? Who's got a better right? Of course there's the house and a little bit on the side, but you're simply not going to eat that up—you're going to have something to start life on."

"But I'm not going to do that," argued Daisy. I'm not going to school any more. I'm going to work."

And to this arrangement Mme. Felice was eventually compelled to acquiesce. But she had her way about one thing. "If you're going to earn your own living, Daisy," she said, "you're coming into my loft with me I simply won't have you knocking around any old place."

And that's how it came that Daisy Hempell, who didn't type circus a little bit, came to be earning her living stitching vari-colored jewels in huge designs on mammoth elephants blankets of black velvet. And Daisy's job was a very much more responsible one than it sounds.

For, be it known to the surprise no doubt of the uninitiate that the bushels of gems employed by a big circus in bedizening the trappings of its beasts are no ordinary fabrications of glass. If they were a week of wear and tear of the road would have no single gleam in them. Instead they are truly synthetic jewels of parts and come from overseas, and cost a pack of money in the total. Now it happens that just at the time when Daisy, under the kindly tutelage of the wardrobe chieftainess, became a seamstress to elephants, camels and Arab chargers, these highly essential gems had become very hard to get and extremely high in price. The country where they were made having with traffic folly permitted itself to become involved on the wrong side of the great war, the markets of the world were closed to it—and Enoch Prout, the All America's purchasing agent, had made haste to gather in all the "wardrobe jewels" in sight. They cost thousands where formerly they had cost hundreds, but inasmuch as it was now assured that no other circus would be able to rival the magnificance of the All America's trappings next season—for Enoch had cleaned out the market—it was regarded as excellent business.

Mme Felice, as a department head, was a highly trusted and responsible executive as well as an artist. All the store of cunningly fashioned jewels was left in her care and was kept, along with a fortune in costly stuffs, in a great strong box in the loft. And presently Mme Felice turned the care and accounting of this over to Daisy.

Now there were a dozen girls at work in the wardrobe loft. But for eleven of the dozen Bob Sloan, the paint shop foreman, had no eyes at all, though the personnel of a great circus in winter quarters is a community. Bob, from the day of his first catching a glimpse of Daisy, and aside from assiduous attention to his job, became a man of one idea. And the idea was Daisy.

Bob might have done well along the advancement of that idea, for he was a clean looking young man of a somewhat rugged type, and enjoyed the respect of Mme Felice, which was important. But it transpired that there came to the quarters just at that time a winsome youth named Joe Taggart Joe had been candy butcher with the Metzuire show, but declared he had had enough of that outfit of crooks and proposed to join up with "real people" even if he did have to take a kind of errand boy job with the quarters' superintendent to start with. He dressed well and gave the impression of being in the circus business from choice rather than necessity.

And he hadn't been in evidence a week before he had discovered Daisy and laid such seige to her that steady going Bob Sloan was nowhere. The Bob Sloans in this world have a foolish weakness for sulkily giving way before the demonstrations in force of the Joe Taggarts. They expect too much of the girl in the case.

A girl who has lately been tragically orphaned and who sews for elephants all day in a vast bare loft needs other companionship in her leisure than that of an almost elderly French woman who counts her dimes. And Daisy loved the movies. If Bob Sloan was silly enough to sulk and quit what was to be expected but that she should become chummy with so frank and pleasing an admirer as Joe?

But there was one thing about Joe Taggart that often sent Daisy's thoughts flying to steady old Bob. It was when, now and then, she caught Joe looking at her out of the corners of his eyes. Bob has never done that. And it made Daisy uneasy. She wished he wouldn't.

Then came the night. They had been to the movies. Joe had pretended to be going to kiss her and had pulled a handkerchief from his lips in neck preparation. All play, for Daisy never let Joe kiss her, you know. But when he had gone Daisy found on the floor of the hallway, a letter without an envelope. Words in it caught her eye and she read it—flagrantly; anybody would have done so; anybody, at all events, who was eighteen and had been made love to by the person who dropped the letter. This is what she read:

Joe—For the love of Mike how much longer is it going to take you to pull that trick? You say the girl's a simp? Well, get busy with her and cop the goods. Mac's frothing at the mouth because his tinsel room is held up waiting for them sparks. You'll be losing the thousand and your pickings with this show if you don't get a wriggle on you. Get going.

BLANEY.

"I brought it to you, Bob," said Daisy to Sloan the first thing next morning "because I thought somebody ought to know, and you seemed—oh, I don't know; you seemed to be the only one."

"I'm glad you did," said Bob soberly. "Felice would have made an awful noise. And we must keep this quiet for your sake. I'm sorry, little girl! You liked him a lot, didn't you? It's too bad to have him turn out to be here just to steal a lot of wardrobe jewels for McGuire. I'll take this to the boss and I'm sure he'll just shoo him away quietly."

Daisy looked up into the kind, deeply concerned eyes of the man for a long moment. "Bob," she asked irrelevantly, "you're eleven years older than I am, aren't you. If you were eleven hundred, do you suppose you'd know anything?" Then she turned and walked back to the wardrobe stairs, and Bob wondering, couldn't see the smile at all.

OUT OUR WAY BY WILLIAMS

WISCONSIN AT WASHINGTON

By Betty Pruett Farrington

WASHINGTON. — Senator Lenroot was away on Monday addressing the graduating class of the University of Delaware at Newark in that State. Following his return Tuesday, he said he didn't see how he could get away for even a day during the tumultuous weeks to come. His presence is needed by Republicans to help steer a straight legislative course. He is counted upon to take a big part in deciding the course of action on the Soldiers Bonus Bill and on the Ship Subsidy.

Wisconsin's Junior Senator is keeping close touch with developments in the coal strike. In connection with efforts to prevent prices from soaring, he was called into private conference again by his friend, Secretary Hoover, the Administration's "big man" on economic and industrial questions.

* * * *

Mr. La Follette returned to Washington on Thursday, the day after his speech in Cincinnati, to resume his duties in the Senate. Both he and Mr. Lenroot were there when Senator McCumber, of North Dakota, brought forth the exhibit of imported articles, sold, he said at profits running as high as several thousand per cent, to show the Tariff Bill should not result in an increase in prices. Mr. Lenroot entered briefly into the debate when Senator Underwood, of Alabama, the Democratic leader, proceeded to chide Mr. McCumber. The Wisconsin Senator said that whatever other conclusions might be drawn from the exhibit, it demonstrated that importers could easily pay the proposed tariff duties without increasing the selling prices of the articles in this country.

Nominating petitions for members of the delegation in the House are beginning to come in. Those members absent have some busy secretaries here going over these lists and marking up their friends. The usual load of campaign literature will soon be pouring into the State. Right now "the elections the thing". Representatives John M. Nelson, of Madison, James A. Frear, of Hudson, and David G. Classon, of Oconto, are still back in the State looking to the repair of political fences, excepting Mr. Classon, who isn't going to run again.

* * * *

While the Ship Subsidy legislation has been in committee, the House has been looking after minor legislation. Representative Stafford, of Milwaukee, is there almost continually. He makes it his particular business to watch proceedings on the floor. He wants to see that no one "puts anything over" in some petty bill. With Representatives A. P. Nelson, of Grantsburg and Voight of Sheboygan, he was actively in the fight over the bill relating to the taxation of national banks.

A healthy colony of graduates of the University of Wisconsin has again begun to show signs of life. On June 24th they are going to hold a "Wisconsin Alumni lawn party." It will be held at the home of Fred Esch in Chevy Chase, one of the Capital's attractive suburbs. This Mr. Esch, incidentally, is not related to John J. Esch, of La Crosse, now a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, or his brother George Esch, who is associated with him as a secretary.

The Farm Page

This page marks the first publication of the TRIBUNE'S weekly farm department. We present it to the farmers who read The TRIBUNE in the hope that they will recognize in it a constructive effort to report the news of the biggest business in this territory, or for that matter in the country. We hope that they will find in it, from week to week, all the news of themselves and their neighbors, and such material culled in the wide field of scientific agricultural experiment and research as will be of direct and practical benefit to them.

It is a new business for us, we are frank to confess. Interested we have always been in the problems of the farmer, but we cannot claim to have had any more than a superficial knowledge of their details. So the farm page will not assume to be expert in matters of practical farming. The advice of experts, professional or practical, we shall pass on for what it may prove to be worth. But we shall not attempt advice of our own on this page, whether upon agricultural, political, financial or business matters as they relate to the farmer. Our aim is solely to present the news of a field which has been too long neglected, considering the commanding importance it holds in the territory about La Crosse.

We invite co-operation, comment and suggestion. News addressed to the Farm Editor concerning any phase of activity in the farming regions reached by The TRIBUNE will be most welcome. Letters on matters of general agricultural interest we shall be glad to print. And we wish to make it plain at the outset that we have no axes to grind. This page will report the news of any and all bona-fide groups in the farming community. It will endeavor to avoid propaganda of any sort.

We want to create on this page a newspaper occupied with the doings, the experiments and the successes of agriculture in our home region—just that, and nothing more.

NEW WEED GROWTH MAY BE STOPPED BY PROMPT CARE

Farmers Urged to Co-Operate With Experiment Station to Check Weed Growth

"Now is the time for farmers to be on the lookout for new weeds. It is very easy for a patch of quack grass, Canada thistles, or other troublesome weed to establish itself in a pasture, meadow or grain field and great care is necessary to prevent it," warns A. L. Stone, state seed inspector.

If a new or unfamiliar weed appears in the fields, the farmer should send a plant to the experiment station immediately and have its identity ascertained. Weeds should not be given a chance to spread, but should be killed at once.

The whole plant should be sent, as stem and leaves are not enough. Flowers or seeds, or both, should be included. Grasses especially, should bear the heads, as many grasses have foliage so similar as to make it impossible to identify them without the heads.

All plants should be as fresh as possible, and be wrapped in damp moss, cotton, or cloth, to prevent drying out.

If each plant is numbered and a duplicate kept of it with the same number, identification can be reported by number, which will save lengthy correspondence or the return of plants to the sender.

Mail all plants and correspondence to A. L. Stone, agronomy building, Madison.

The Editor's Woe

"You are leaving town?"

"For a few days," said the editor of the Chiggersville Clarion. "I'm the victim of an unfortunate typographical error."

"What happened?"

"I was commenting on the Christmas shopping crowds and said there was a fine showing of our better halves on Main street yesterday."

"Well?"

"Nothing more, except that the printer made it 'calves.'"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

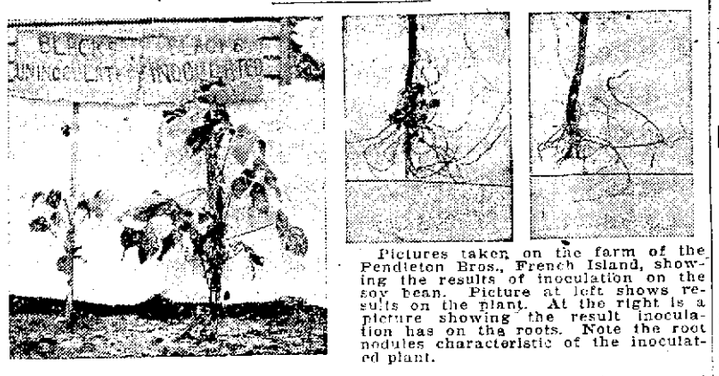
INOCULATION OF SOY BEAN AND ALFALFA IS URGED BY EXPERTS FOR BEST RESULTS



Pictures taken on the farm of the Pendleton Bros., French Island, showing the results of inoculation on the soy bean. Picture at left shows results on the plant. At the right is a picture showing the result inoculation has on the roots. Note the root nodules characteristic of the inoculated plant.

Inoculation for better results in raising soy beans and alfalfa is strongly recommended by W. E. Spreiter, La Crosse county agricultural agent. The accompanying photographs show the results of inoculation on the soy bean, but the results are the same with alfalfa, and the inoculation process is accomplished in the same way.

The pictures shown on this page were taken on the farm of the Pendleton Brothers on French Island. They illustrate graphically the good results obtained by inoculation in this section of the country. The plants shown are from last years crop, the biggest soy bean crop which the Pendleton brothers have ever had.

Like other legumes, soy beans are able to utilize the nitrogen of the air and add it to the soil by means of root nodules. These nodules, which may be seen in the photograph, are caused by certain bacteria and unless they are present the soy beans and alfalfa will make but a weak growth.

Throughout the south the proper bacteria for the soy beans seems to be widely distributed, so that natural inoculation occurs generally, but northward and westward, greater difficulty in this regard is experienced.

Inoculation of a new field may be secured either by the soil-transfer method, or by the use of the pure cultures prepared by the department of agriculture. The objections to the soil-transfer method are the labor and cost involved and the serious danger of spreading weeds and dangerous plant diseases.

Fresh liquid cultures are sent out from the department of agriculture in sealed bottles, and for small quantities of seed the culture may be diluted and used directly upon the seed. The advantage of the artificial cultures lies in the greater ease of transportation and application, as well as in the absence of the liability of introducing plant diseases or harmful weeds.

Good For Hay

Soy bean hay when cut at the proper stage of growth and carefully cured is excellent, and for dairy cattle at least yields results equal to alfalfa hay. For hay production soy beans may be planted in cultivated rows, or when the ground is free from weeds may be drilled or broadcasted.

The most satisfactory varieties of the soy bean for planting in this section of the country, as recommended by Mr. Spreiter are;

Northern grown Ito San—This variety requires about the same growing period to mature seed as Golden Glow corn.

Varieties of Soy Beans

The Manchu, Medium Green and Black Eyebrow and Medium Brown make about the same growth and require about the same length of growing period. The above varieties are grown very successfully for hay. For silage they are grown in corn, or grown alone and mixed with corn at silo filling time. Their popularity ranks in about the same order as given above.

The Wisconsin Early Black is very early and sure to mature seed even in short seasons. This variety is used mainly for seed, but is used to some extent for hay purposes. The Early Blacks do not make the large growth that the previously mentioned varieties do, so they are not so satisfactory as hay or silage.

The Mammoth Yellow makes a large, rank growth, but as it is a late variety it will not mature seed in this section.

CANNING SEASON IN FULL SWING MONDAY MORNING

All Canneries in County in Operation; Pea Crop is Reported Good

By Monday morning the pea canning season in La Crosse county was well under way, with all of the canneries operating full forces. The Onalaska Pickle and Canning company was the first to open for the season, beginning Wednesday morning on the season's pack of early peas. Holmen started operation Thursday and Galesville was expected to get under way Friday. The Hyssa Canning company of Bangor canned its first batch of peas for this year on Friday afternoon. At West Salem it was thought that work would be commenced the latter part of the week, or Monday morning.

The acreage of peas in the county is about the same as last year, with the crop running from fair to excellent in different localities. All of the communities report at least a normal crop.

Prospects for a good crop of the late peas are bright, if the present weather conditions hold out, though a few days of hot weather without rain may impair the crop materially.

MONROE COUNTY IS AMONG LEADERS IN DAIRY IMPROVEMENT

Monroe county is among the leaders in cow-testing association work, according to the June 15th edition of the Wisconsin Farmer. In a grade cow sale held recently at Sparta, the top cow sold for $155. The animal was the property of Elmer Daulton, of Sparta and her association record was 358 pounds of butter fat from 9,000 pounds of milk. Mr. Daulton kept eight grade Holsteins with a herd fat average of 364 pounds.

Charles Van de Schaaf, George Weiner, L. M. Compton, J. L. Jones and County Agent E. M. Liddle were the men behind the sale. C. P. Chrysler, tester for the Leon Valley club is another dairy improvement enthusiast.

Monroe county has just closed a special week's campaign in the interests of dairy advancement through the use of pure bred sires and more testing.

High Flyer

"Bill," said the foreman after the accident, "did you break the news to Mrs. Murphy about her husband getting blown sky-high in the explosion?"

"I did."

"Did you break it gently?"

"I did. I told her that Tom got that raise he'd been looking for."—Los Angeles Times.

FLOWER COCKSCOMBS

Did you ever observe the cockscombs or celosias? Their stems tell the color of the combs. From the time the seed germinates the stems of a yellow cockscomb will be bright yellow, red ones will have red stems and the veins of the leaves show the same characteristic.

The tall plumy varieties are one of the most decorative of annuals, one of the fastest growing and most satisfactory for producing an ornamental and unusual effect with a minimum of trouble. They need sun and the richer the soil the better their growth although they grow in soil of only moderate fertility but suffer in stature from the lack of food.

The taller kinds need eighteen inches for full development, the terminal plume being followed by numerous side branches, each carrying its plume. These plumes are beautiful material to cut and dry for winter bouquets, retaining their colors remarkably well.

The Thompsonii strains are fine and standard. Pride of Castle Gould gives vegetable ostrich plumes of remarkably delicate texture and during the last two years a pompon variety known as the Chinese woolflower, perhaps the showiest of the class, has been developed, each branch terminating in a woolly ball of glowing red. Yellow and pink shades are now on the market. It is a most unusual and showy plant and as valuable as the plump varieties for winter bouquets, although lacking the grace.

The dwarf cockscombs with their corrugated combs resembling those of the barnyard fowl from which the plant is named, are curiosities as well as beautiful bedding plants. They grow to enormous size on plants of only six or seven inches in height, while others tower to two and three feet with the broad heads.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR GOOD CROPS IN THIS SECTION

La Crosse District Not Heavy Sufferer from Winter Storms; Crops Look Well

HAY AND PASTURAGE SITUATION EXCELLENT

Wheat and Rye Look Good at Present

A general survey of the crops in the district surrounding La Crosse finds them in most cases in excellent condition, despite the severe winter and the late spring. Farmers all through this section report bumper crops of alfalfa and other hay, the orchards are looking fine, peas are in good shape with the canning season already under way, and from all indications, the hope of farmers for "corn knee high by the Fourth of July" is to be realized.

Though other counties in the southern part of the state report severe damage to crops due to the sleet storms which swept the state last winter, the farmers of La Crosse county seem to be more fortunate. eVry little damage is reported here, though the fruit trees suffered to some extent.

Hay Crop Good

Farmers in many localities have already started cutting their hay; some who intended to start last week had to put it off for a time because of the rains. Tame hay is doing well, and a particularly heavy crop of marsh hay is assured.

Pasture land all over the state has improved in condition since May 15th. The condition reported on June 1st was 85 per cent, as compared with 75 per cent in May. The exceptionally good condition of pasturage this year is accountable to the heavy rains of the past weeks. Herds in this locality have been turned out on pasturage for sime time.

Wheat seems to be doing well, the winter wheat suffering but slightly from the winter's covering of ice. Other grains show promising signs, rye especially giving every indication of being a bumper crop this year.

MADISON, Wis.—Except where damaged by wind storms and flooding caused by heavy rains last week, crops made an exceptionally good growth, the state crop reporting service says in its weekly summary Monday. Farm work was delayed by wet weather, but generous rainfall has assured crop growth for some time to come.

Corn is said to have grown very rapidly in all but lowlands where soil moisture is temporarily excessive. The rapid growth has lowered damage by grubs, cut worms, crows and other destructive agencies. Late planted fields are said, however, to have been interfered with by rain and to have become weedy.

Oats, barley and spring wheat are reported as well along with an excellent stand and height. Some fields are commencing to head. There has been an appearance of rust in eastern counties.

Storms and rain during the week beat down a considerable acreage of winter wheat and rye which the report says will be made into hay. The crop is well headed where not affected by the adverse weather.

Potatoes benefited by rain and high temperatures and are up to a good stand in commercial sections. Early plantings of the crop are beginning to blossom in southern counties. Damage is being done by potato beetles which are more numerous than usual, while leaf hoppers are reported in some counties. Cultivation has been interrupted by rains.

Similarly the cutting of hay crops has been held up by wet weather. Some alfalfa and clover which was in the swath was damaged by heavy rains. Timothy is reported to have improved after a late start.

Planting of tobacco is progressing as rapidly as weather permits, with the crop reported as early. Plants are large but not numerous due to above average loss from rot in seed beds. Early canning peas are said to be in full bloom and prospects pointing to a heavy crop. Rain has delayed cabbage planting and cultivation, while sugar beets are in fair condition.

Strawberries are reported to be yielding heavily. Livestock is in good flesh. Heavy production of milk is reported for the week.

FARMERS PROFIT BY SHIPPING EGGS TO EASTERN MARKETS

MADISON, Wis.—Shipping eggs to some of the big eastern markets is proving to be a highly profitable enterprise to many Wisconsin farmers. To meet the demands of this trade, it is necessary, according to J. G. Halpin, poultry husbandman at the college of agriculture, to follow "the rules and regulations." Haphazard shipping does not result in the prices which would come even from marketing at home.

"When you get low returns, you are at fault in the selection of the eggs you ship or in the way you ship them. I was talking with a man from the upper part of the state recently who has been shipping to Milwaukee and is netting 15 cents a dozen more than the local stores will pay him. It is hard to convince him that it doesn't pay to ship eggs.

COW TESTING CLUB FORMED IN SHELBY TOWN WEDNESDAY

At a meeting held Wednesday in the Town of Shelby, a cow testing association was organized among the farmers of that locality. The organization of the association was under the direction of W. E. Spreiter, county agent, and Sam Hyde, dairy man.

It is planned to organize these associations in all of the townships in the county.

LEON-BANGOR JOINT DISTRICT TO HAVE A NEW SCHOOL HOUSE

New Edifice to be Raised in Joint District Number One; to be Ready by Fall

The children of Joint Ditsrict No. 1, known as the Fish Creek district, of Bangor and Leon townships, will go back to school in the fall in a brand new school house, it was announced last week.

Funds have alrendy been raised for the building, which is to be a fine one-room structure, and work will be commenced very soon. It was decided some time ago that a new building was necessary, but definite plans for its construction were not made at that time because there was some talk of building a consolidated school in Rockland, which would have done away with the Fish Creek school.

The recent action of the state board of education, through Mr. S. M. Thomas, its inspector, in condemning the present building, and prohibiting its future use as a school caused definite action to be taken on the matter.

The plan for a consolidated school will now be put off indefinitely.

LA CROSSE COUNTY SHOWS INCREASED ALFALFA ACREAGE

Crop in this County Looks Well After Severe Winter; Banner Year Expected

Of the ten principal alfalfa counties in Wisconsin, only two, Fond du Lac and Sheboygan counties, show an increased acreage this year. The other eight counties all had their acreage reduced by 35 per cent to 80 per cent. Including one-year fields from which the first crop will be cut this year, the acreage is estimated at 92,000 acres, compared to 131,000 in 1921 and a 5-year acreage of 71,000 acres. Winter-killing was severe over southern Wisconsin. The condition on June 1 was 75 per cent, compared to 94 per cent last year and a 10-year average of 89.8 per cent. Production is forecasted at 199,000 tons, compared to 343,000 tons in 1921 and a 5-year average of 190,000 tons.

Alfalfa condition in the United States is estimated at 93.2 per cent, compared to 87.9 per cent last year and a 10-year average of 92.4 per cent.

The year of 1922 promises to be a manner one for the growers of alfalfa in La Crosse county. According to W. E. Spreiter, county agricultural agent, the crop in this vicinity came through the winter in fine shape, and is now doing well. It looks as though the alfalfa yield this year will be the greatest in the history of the county. It is estimated that there are about 300 acres devoted to alfalfa in the county.

ONLY ONE SHIP

An American doughboy, captive to a Boche officer, was questioned:

"How many of you American soldiers are there on this side of the Atlantic?" queried the German.

"Oh! About three million of us."

"It must have taken a lot of ships we knew nothing about to bring all you, didn't it?"

"Oh, no; only one ship brought us over!"

"Only one! Impossible, and what one was that?"

"The Lusitania."—Judge.

He Was the Doer

"What position did you hold in your last place?" asked the merchant.

"I was a doer, sir."

"A doer? What's that?"

"Well, sir, you see when my employer wanted anything done he would tell the cashier, the cashier would tell the bookkeeper, the bookkeeper would tell the clerk and the clerk would tell me."

"And what would happen then?"

"Well, sir, as I hadn't anyone to tell it to, I'd do it."—Long Island Star.

MEETING AT WEST SALEM ATTENDED BY 27 GROWERS INTERESTED IN THE PLAN

FARM BUREAU SEEKS MORE MEMBERS IN LA CROSSE COUNTY

Campaign on to Sign up Every Farmer in the County for Membership in Bureau

STATE SECRETARY VISITS MINDORO WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Farmington Has 86 Members Since June 1st

The La Crosse county branch of the Farm bureau in the midst of a campaign which is designed to reach to every farmer in the county. Wonderful results have already been achieved, according to the statement made by Mr. W. D. Sandman of West Salem, secretary for the La Crosse county branch of the bureau.

The total membership in the county now includes over 500 farmers, many of whom have joined the organization since June 1, when the drive began. The bureau has four solicitors in the county who are devoting their full time to the campaign.

Mr. H. L. McMurray of Madison, with Fred G. Meyer and Clyde Bradley of the town of Burns made a record drive Wednesday when they signed up for membership all of the 22 farmers whom they approached during the day. In three days' work they signed up 45 new members, bringing the total of membership in Burns township up to 80.

Meeting at Mindoro

John W. Mann of Dodge county is the solicitor who is working in the town of Farmington. Since June 1, 86 new members have joined the bureau in that township. A rousing meeting was held in the village of Mindoro on Wednesday night. It was attended by about 100 farmers, many of whom were taken into the bureau at that time. Mr. I. M. Wright, state secretary of the farm bureau, was present at the meeting at Mindoro Wednesday night.

In the town of Bangor, F. F. Summers of Rock county, has secured 26 new members for the local farm bureau in the town of Bangor. There were 40 members there before.

J. H. Fisher, also of Rock County, is working in Onalaska and Holland township. The exact number of new members signed up by Mr. Fisher is not known at present, but he is reported to be making splendid progress.

WEST SALEM BOYS IN MADISON FOR ONE WEEK COURSE

Attending 13th Annual Young People's Week at College of Agriculture

Boys and girls from all parts of Wisconsin are attending the 13th annual Young People's One Week Course at the College of Agriculture, June 13 to 16. The young people in the course represent the thousands of boys and girls enrolled in the boys' and girls' clubs of the state. The trip to Madison came as the finish of a year of work at home.

Two La Crosse county boys are attending the week's course at the University of Wisconsin this summer. They are Gordon Clark and Edward Thomas, both of West Salem. Gordon Clark won a free trip to Madison as a premium for exhibiting prize stock at the State Fair at Milwaukee last fall.

Some of the interesting talks on the week's program include: "Ways and Means of a Modern Education," "Beautifying the Home Grounds," "Wireless and its Uses," "Starting a Farm Home Library," "Bee Culture for Wisconsin Boys and Girls," and "Lessons in Home Economics." Trips were made to Madison packing plants and factories, to the university dairy, swine, cattle, and sheep departments and to the United States Forest Products laboratory. The state capitol and many other points of interest about Madison were included in the excursions.

T. L. Bewick, state leader of boys' and girls' clubs and B. F. Zaffke, assistant leader were in charge of the one-week course. They were assisted by many other members of the agricultural college faculty.

FARM BUREAU IS BEHIND DRIVE TO BOOST POOL IDEA

Meeting at West Salem is Attended by 27 Growers; 300 Acres Tobacco in County

DIFFICULTY EXPERIENCED IN LINING UP FARMERS

Tobacco Grown in Widely Scattered Districts

The drive is on in La Crosse and Monroe counties to sign up the tobacco marketing pool. A meeting of tobacco growers, attended by 27 farmers, was held in West Salem on June 12, to discuss the situation and to line up the growers. Nearly all of those present at the West Salem meeting took membership in the pool, contracting their tobacco crop to the pool for a period of five years.

It is the aim of the pool to secure contracts from at least 75 per cent of all of the tobacco growers in the state. The farmers sign five year contracts, and the pool, under the direction of the bureau of markets, agrees to market the crop at the best available prices.

Difficulty Experienced

Much difficulty is being experienced in organizing the La Crosse county district, since tobacco raising is somewhat of a new thing here. It is estimated that there will be about three hundred acres of tobacco set out in the county this year, but the acreage is divided up into small lots on many farms—a fact which makes it hard for the farm bureau officials to get into touch with all of the growers.

The bureau is hard at work at the present time, and expect to have most of the growers signed up in a few days. Nearly all of the farmers approached have willingly taken membership in the pool, but it is hard in some cases to get into touch with them. All farmers in La Crosse county who plan to have any tobacco at all, are urged to get into communication with the farm bureau, or with W. E. Spreiter, the county agent, to expedite matters.

Vernon County Strong

Vernon county, the principal tobacco raising county in this section of the state, is also one of the greatest exponents of the tobacco pool. Practically all of the growers in that county have signed up, and given contracts for their crops.

Much of the same difficulty is being found by the organizers in Monroe county that they find in La Crosee, due to the fact that in that county also the tobacco crop is something new. Work of lining up the growers has been going on for some time, and good progress is reported, especially in the southern part of the county.

State Wide Movement

The state wide tobacco pool was started only this year. It is a measure designed to get the best possible prices for the growers for their crops, and is modeled after the pools existing in Kentucky and other tobacco states of the south, which have had wonderful success during the past few years. Farmers, by selling their crops to the pool, will be able to command better prices, because, when there is an over-supply on the market the pool association, with its extensive warehouse facilities, will be able to hold the tobacco until the market is freer.

HUGHES SPEAKER AT GRADUATION SERVICE AT "U" OF MICHIGAN

Utters Plea for New Sense of Civic Responsibility in World Affairs

"OLD DIPLOMACY" REPLACED BY MORE FLEXIBLE SYSTEM HE SAYS

Problem is How to Secure Sound Public Opinion

ANN ARBOR, Mich., —A plea for a "new sense of civic responsibility in matters of international concern," in the United States, as the most certain basis of promoting peace in the world, was made here Monday by Secretary Hughes at the commencement exercises of the University of Michigan.

"Sound public opinion," was most necessary to support the nation's peaceful diplomatic aims, he said. "It must frown upon the constant efforts to create suspicion, distrust and hatred," he continued. "There can be no assurance of peace, and few of the necessary and just settlements which make for peace, in a world of fate."

Mr. Hughes chose for his subject the title "Some Observations On the Conduct of Our Foreign Relations."

In opening he said that with the development of the international conference method of seeking solution of international problems, a "more direct and flexible" system had replaced the old diplomacy," one that was responsive to foreign policy, aside from certain readily recognized views, long approved by generations of statesmen and which only a revolution of opinion can change.

"The people cannot judge wisely without being informed," he said, "and the problem is how to inform them. In dealing with the problem of developing sound opinion, the fundamental consideration must always be that misinformation is the public's worst enemy, more potent for evil than all the conspiracies that are commonly feared."

Secretary Hughes and Gov. A. J. Groesbeck of Michigan, were two of the eleven men honored by the University of Michigan at its commencement exercises when they received the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

RENAISSANCE

Time was when certain editors made it a rule never to retract any statements made in their papers. If they stated that a horse was sixteen feet high instead of sixteen hands high, why sixteen feet high he was, so far as the Evening Screech was concerned.

The issue was tested when an irate citizen who had been ill but experienced a sudden change for the better, dropped in and confronted the editor.

"Look here," he howled. "You printed this morning that I was dead. Well, I'm a long way from dead and it's up to you to print a correction."

"I'm sorry," said the editor mildly, "but we never do such things."

"You don't hey? Well, you will this time or I'll horsewhip you within an inch of your life."

"Don't do that," said the editor hastily. "We can't make a correction but we'll fix it up. Wait for tomorrow's paper. It'll be O. K."

Next morning, under "Births," the sheet announced:

"Born: To the late Silas B. and Jane Appleby, a son, Jonas, forty-seven years old and one of our most popular grocers."—American Legion Weekly.

THE GOLFER'S LULLABY

Sleep, little one. Father watches o'er thee;
Thy bed's a good lie, thy pillow's a tee,
And then, a wee ball all brambled and white,
Shall sail through the air on a magical flight,
Hush-a-bye, little one, lie still, and so
Straight down the fairway of Sleep shalt thou go.
But if thou dost toss and dost turn in thy bed
Then will go into the Rough then, instead;
And Father will hunt for thee all the night through
Down courses in Dreamland, through grasses and dew—
High grass of bad dreams and bunkers of tears,
Wide fields of wakefulness, sand-pits of fears;
He will hunt through the dangerous dim Out-of-Bounds
Where a dark phantom Bogey lives, haunting the grounds),
But never will come on his little lost ball
Because it would never lie quiet at all!
So hush-a-bye, little one, lie still, and so
Straight down the fairway of Sleep shalt thou go.

MILDRED HUSSA BECOMES BRIDE OF WALDO R. ARNOLD

AT THE BEAUTIFUL summer home at Sunset Point of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Hussa, 1435 State street, their daughter, Mildred, became the bride of Mr. Waldo R. Arnold of Milwaukee, at 1 o'clock on Monday. The bridal procession formed at the house and proceeded to a pergola, artistically built for the occasion by the bride and bridegroom, and elaborately decorated with foliage and flowers. The bride was attended by Miss Katherine Felix of Prairie du Sac as bridesmaid and Mrs. Harry Peterson of Chicago as matron of honor. Mr. Basil Walters of Milwaukee was the best man. Little Miss Wilma Prahl, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl, and Master Willis Fluhr was the ring bearer. The ring service was performed by the Reverend Nellie Mann Opdale, pastor of St. Paul's Universalist church. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played on the victrola during the approach and the service of the bridal party.

Following the ceremony a wedding luncheon was served at daintily appointed tables decorated with daisies, iris and wild roses. Places were laid for sixty-five. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold will take a six weeks' honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, New York and Washington, following which they will make their home at Milwaukee.

The bride was most charming in a gown of white velvet brocaded chiffon combined with white satin charmeuse. Her veil was edged with princess lace, falling from a crown. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaids' frocks were of orchid colored organdie with which they wore corsage bouquets of roses, sweet peas and larkspur. The little flower maid wore white lace over pink georgette crepe.

The out of town guests were Misses Katherine and Merriam Felix and Mr. Henry Felix of Prairie du Sac; Dr. and Mrs. Harry Peterson of Chicago, Mr. Basil Walters and Mr. Milton Griem of Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bolles of West Salem; Mrs. Oscar Hussa, Mrs. Otto Hussa, Mrs. Ernest Hussa, Mrs. Hugo Hussa, Mrs. Henry Soltau and the Misses Amalie, Marie and Elizabeth Hussa of Bangor; Mr. and Mrs. Veers of New Holstein; Mr. and Mrs. Fluhr and Miss Lillian Arnold, the three ladies being sisters of the bridegroom, Willis Fluhr and Mrs. Arnold, mother of the bridegroom, all of Kiel, Wis.

THE MISSES Marie and Ruth Esch leave Monday night for Chicago, where they will spend two days with their sister, Mrs. Tremblett. They will then go to New York to be joined by their father, the Hon. John J. Esch, who will see them off on their trip abroad. They sail Saturday, June 24, on the steamship Olympic, for a summer's tour of the old country. They will be accompanied by Miss Helen Jamison of Poinette, formerly the French instructor at the high school. They will visit England, France, Italy, Germany, Austria, Belgium and Scotland and on July 16 will witness the Passion Play at Oberamergau. It has developed the tour is the same which Miss Jessie Emery is to make, sailing on the same boat.

U. S. GRAIN GROWERS' SOCIETY SEEKS SEAT ON GRAIN EXCHANGE

New Organization Will also Make Sales Contracts Direct With Consumers

CHICAGO, Ill.—Co-operation between a committee of the Midwest Farm bureau and the officers of the United States Grain Growers, Inc., was announced Monday as the latest detail of the grain growers' selling plan under which the organization will attempt to acquire seats on the Chicago and Minneapolis grain exchanges and will also make sales contracts direct with consumers.

Financing arrangements of a million dollars or more to cover grain movements, whether the grain is handled through the sales company with grain exchange membership or sold direct to consumers, have been made, Mr. Gustafson, president of the Grain Growers, said.

The co-operation of the farm bureau committee was looked upon as ironing out some difficulties between the grain growers and the American Farm Bureau federation which fathered the younger organization. The committee is composed of E. H. Cunningham, secretary of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation; W. S. Hill, president of the South Dakota federation, and J. W. Coverdale, secretary of the American Bureau federation. Conferences are now in progress to enable the latter to begin handling grain at an early date.

The litigation over the estate of old Samuel Small had dragged out over a period of eight years, growing more and more involved all the while.

PIG CLUB DINNER WEDNESDAY NOON AT MYRICK PARK

Responses received from the invitations sent out to members of the Pig Club indicate a very large attendance at the picnic to be held in Myrick park Wednesday noon. This will undoubtedly be the "best yet" dinner. The weather looks promising, a good menu has been planned, there will be a few good talks, and plenty of room in the park to move around. It's going to be mighty comfortable out there under the trees.

The merchants who give the pigs are going to make up an active reception committee. They will be there to greet the boys and girls and their families and are going to personally see that every one is taken care of at the dinner.

The pigs will be there and immediately after the dinner will be given to the winning contestants.

This year the merchants are going to make a concerted effort to visit all the boy and girl members of the Pig club. It is their plan on certain Wednesday afternoons to go in a group to the different farms and see how the pigs and their small owners are progressing.

WU TIGHTENS HOLD UPON THE DISTURBED SITUATION IN CHINA

"Strong Man of China" Stronger than Ever With Flight of Sun and Defeat of Chang

ARMISTICE CONCLUDED WITH LEADER OF MANCHURIAN ARMY

South China Leader Expected to Attempt Recapture of Canton

PEKING.—By The Associated Press. The grasp of Wu Pei-fu on the disturbed situation in China apparently was stronger Monday than at any time since his defeat of Chang Tso-lin at the gates of Peking first brought him in prominence as a prospective "strong man of China."

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, principal opponent of the Peking government, has fled from Canton, where the southern Chinese government he headed, is overthrown and Chen Chiung Min, who is favorable to Wu, is in control.

In the north the leaders of Wu's army on the south Manchurian front and the head of the forces of Chang in that region have concluded a definite armistice according to advices from Chinwangtao and Chang's troops are withdrawing. The armistice, according to information here resulted from a meeting of the two commanders aboard a British vessel at Chinwangtao last Friday.

The fighting is over in the north, but Wu still faces an enemy in the south. He believes Sun holds himself divinely appointed to reunite China and is still determined to fight.

Five boats under Sun's leadership, have shelled a part of Canton. The despatches report the casualties as few because of a flight of many of the inhabitants.

Sun, moreover, is waiting for the remnants of his defeated armies to rally so that he may attempt the recapture of Canton.

Wu's 12,000 troops of Nanchang apparently are standing fast before Sun's beleaguering forces and Chen Chiung Ming at Canton, is showing no disposition to accede to Sun's representations for a conciliation between them.

INTERVENTION IN COAL STRIKE ASKED

central competitive field can even yet be induced to meet the miners in joint conference in accord with precedent, a national conference be called by the government sufficiently representative of all the bituminous coal fields to set standards and secure stability and prosperity for the entire industry. We believe that through frank and open discussion the way will be found to restore health and stability to the industry. Without conference, undertaken in mutual good faith, no lasting peace can be attained.

"We would respectfully call your attention again to the necessity of securing adequate information concerning the essential facts of the coal industry. In particular, the absence of authoritative information concerning the cost of production and profits, has served to increase discontent among the mine workers.

"Knowing that the government is under the neccessity of pleading for moderation in prices, which it has at present no means to compel, and remembering that the operators have secured an injunction restraining the activities of the Federal Trade commission in securing data concerning costs and profits, it is natural that the miners and the public should feel that their interests are not being safeguarded and that they are suffering unfair discrimination.

Ascertain the Facts

"In the antharcite fields where conferences are still in progress the lack of full information regarding the financial facts of the industry may cause the failure of all attempts to negotiate a new agreement. The consumers resent high prices for coal but are unable to form an intelligent judgment as to the cause, on account of the lack of authoritative information.

"We urge therefore that if it is not feasible to restore to the Federal Trade commission the authority which it formerly exercised, the administration recommend congressional action creating an authoritative body which shall have power to secure and make public all the essential facts of the industry. Any settlement of the present strike, no matter how it is reached, will have only temporary force unless it is accompanied by provision for full knowledge and publicity concerning the facts upon which a satisfactory organization of the industry must be based.

End the Strike Now

"We call upon our government, out of concern for the well-being of the nation as a whole, the health and comfort of the miners, and the preservation of the mining industry, to take immediate steps to bring the disputants together in order to secure a just settlement of the present strike and an organization of the coal industry on the basis of the maximum service to the nation.

"You, Mr. President, succeeded in bringing the nations together in conference to reduce armaments and the incitements to war. We respectfully urge that a national coal conference and a federal investigation of the coal industry would have far-reaching consequences in promoting domestic tranquility and abridging the causes of industrial strife.

GOVERNOR SMALL TO OFFER NO EVIDENCE IN TRIAL FOR FRAUD

Announcement that Defense Will Rest Without Introducing Witnesses Comes as Surprise

WAUKEGAN, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Governor Len Small will offer no evidence in his behalf in his trial for conspiracy, C. C. Le Forgee announced in court Monday, but will rest on the evidence of the prosecution.

The announcement came as a complete surprise. It had been expected that the defense would require two or three weeks.

Mr. Le Forgee told Judge Edwards he would offer one or two documents and one motion before resting.

Following a conference after the state concluded its case, State's Attorney C. Fred Mortimer announced the prosecution was through.

Governor Small Monday afternoon issued the following statement:

"They have not proven a single dishonest act against me or anything that is in violation of law. And their own testimony shows that every dollar deposited was returned to the state treasury in full, and that I turned in twice as much interest as any of my predecessors."

At the afternoon session Mr. Le Forgee moved that a large part of the state's evidence be stricken from the record. The state asked for a recess to study the motion before starting arguments on it.

One count of the motion of the defense moves that all the state's evidence be stricken out, another challenges 250 of the 8,000 or more state exhibits; while others attack every important part of the prosecution's testimony.

There are 19 paragraphs in the motion, each covering one feature of the case, and indications are that the argument may last a considerable time. While the state retired to study the motion clerks from the offices of the governor's attorneys arrived in court with more than 30 volumes of law reports to be used in citing opinions in support of the motion.

W. N. Schroeder of Kankakee opened the argument with a brief summary of the defense motion.

FRENCH TROOPS IN SILESIA CLASH WITH PLEBISCITE POLICE

BERLIN.—A sanguine affray is reported to have occurred at Biskupitz, Upper Silesia, between a small detachment of French troops and a force of plebiscite police (a mixed body of Poles and Germans.) Large numbers of civilians sided with the relieving forces and in the trouble which followed a fusillade was fired killing four civilians.

One hundred and twenty persons were injured, some seriously in a fight between members of a patriotic association and a party of communists at Chemnitz on Saturday, according to newspaper reports.

QUALIFYING PLAY IN BRITISH OPEN GOLF IS ON TODAY

SANDWICH England. — By The Associated Press.—Qualifying play in the British open golf championship was started Monday under ideal weather conditions.

Jock Hutchison, the American who won the open last year, is defending his title and the United States is represented by two other strong players in Jim Barnes and Walter Hagen.

WINONA-LA CROSSE ELKS HAVE JOINT OUTING AT DAKOTA

Delightful Event is Attended by Over Seven Hundred Persons from Two Cities

Over 700 persons attended the joint picnic of the Winona and La Crosse lodges of Elks at Dakota park, Dakota, Minn., Sunday.

With ideal weather conditions and good roads, attendance surpassed all expectations of the joint committee, and the outing was a particularly delightful event. A picnic dinner was enjoyed under the trees in the park, and during the afternoon a program of outdoor sports was put on. Prizes were awarded the winners in all events.

Residents of Dakota said the assemblage of automobiles at the park was the largest they had ever seen. A majority of the picnickers remained on the grounds until after the evening meal, arriving home shortly before dark.

DARWINISM FLAYED BY WM. J. BRYAN AT ONALASKA SUNDAY

the Bible and to begin civilization anew.

"Twenty years ago I began to dissent from Darwinism. I dissented on my own judgment after reading his book. I believe Darwinism to be the greatest menace to the morality of the world because it strikes at the root. The attacks made upon me by scientists and religious editors because of my opposition to Darwinism make political controversies pale into insignificance. Darwin's hypothesis is this that 200,000,000 years ago one or a few germs of life appeared on this planet and from these all life has been evolved.

Keep Book From Young

"Our contention is that if Darwin's 'guess' is true the earth would teem with evidence. But in 60 years they haven't found a trace of evidence in the earth to substantiate their theory. If such is the case why is Darwinism taught to the young people in the colleges and schools?

"I object to its effect. Darwin began life believing in the Bible and God. His theories led him to be an agnostic.

"Keep the book from the children, at least keep it from them till they are old enough to think for themselves and form mature opinion. Nitsche built his godless philosophy on Darwinism. The survival of the fittest theory is built on Darwinism yet we have in this country and elsewhere hospitals where the sick are taken care of and everything done to prolong life."

MILTON TO PURCHASE PUBLIC UTILITY PLANT

MADISON, Wis. — The railroad commission Monday held a hearing to establish a value on the McGowan Water, Light & Power company plant at Milton Junction, Wis., which the village intends purchasing.

Company officials are claiming a value of $60,000 for the plant and equipment which is valued at $25,000 by the village. Court action has established that the village must purchase the entire electrical and water utility business of the company.

NOTE INDICATES SUICIDE; POLICE CAN'T FIND BODY

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The finding of a note written by a supposedly despondent man and signed E. J. Rider, Peoria, Ill., indicated the intention of the writer to end his life by drowning in Milwaukee river Monday. The police and coast guard are dragging the river for the body.

The note was found sticking in the corner of a Bill-board on Wells street near the river. "What folks I have think I am dead long ago, so don't try to find them," was written on the reverse side of the note.

KIDNAPPED WIFE SO HE COULD "MAKE UP" DECLARES OHIO MAN

CINCINNATI, Ohio.—Albert H. Marshall, who seized his wife, Clara Marshall, on the golf links of an exclusive club here and carried her into Indiana in an automobile last Friday, surrendered to the police Monday. He is charged with kidnaping by the father of his wife from whom he is separated and who is suing for divorce. Marshall said he carried his wife away so that he could make an effort to affect a reconciliation.

ROCKLAND BREEDER SUED BY DAKOTAN OVER HEIFER DEAL

B. B. Aylor, Grandin, N. D., Demands Return of $2,250 Price of Heifer

B. B. Aylor of Grandin, N. D., began suit in circuit court Monday morning against Eben E. Jones, Shorthorn cattle breeder of Rockland, Wis., for the return of $2,250 which Aylor paid Jones for a purebred registered Shorthorn heifer. Aylor charges the heifer was not as represented and returned the cow to Jones. Jones, he declares, has failed to return the purchase price. Aylor bought the heifer at the Congress sale of Shorthorn cattle in Chicago. The case is being tried before a jury, with Judge S. E. Smalley of Lancaster presiding.

When Mr. Jones was on the stand, being questioned by Daniel Grady, of Portage, attorney for Mr. Aylor, Mr. Jones was asked if he could recall the date that he had bred his heifers, among them being the heifer in question. Mr. Jones said that he could not give the exact date as the breeder's book in which he kept dates of breeding was left on a shelf in the barn and that a calf had chewed it so badly that it was impossible to read the dates in the book. Baldwin & Bosshard are Mr. Jones' attorneys.

The court excused Mrs. Maurice Getts from further jury service Monday morning as she and her family are moving from the city.

The case of Henry W. Miller, West Salem saloonkeeper, charged with the illegal possession of liquor on his saloon premises, which had been set at the head of Monday's calendar, was put over until the November term of circuit court. The liquor charges against Matt Schaller, John McClanathan and George Tollerud also probably will not be brought up until the November term.

BIG DRIVE FOR CHAMBER WILL OPEN ON FRIDAY

Dan Weigle of St. Paul Will Tell of Forces that Build Cities

The initial phase of the publicity and educational drive which is to convince La Crosse, if such conviction be needed, that the hour has struck when the city must "look alive" and get into the procession of progress for the organization of a real, live, effective, and comprehensive commercial organization will be outlined on Friday night at the high school in a city-wide community conference, to which all La Crosse is invited.

There is no fee of entry and positively no subscription for funds will be made at this meeting. This meeting is educational in its purpose and is designed to acquaint the La Crosse public with the plan of the Greater La Crosse Advisory committee, which last Friday formally endorsed the program of the continued La Crosse Chamber of Commerce. This conference is a feature of the expansion and continuation campaign carrying out many changes in the operation of the chamber. This conference will endeavor to explain and make clear what a modern Chamber of Commerce is, wherein it is diffrent from the old-time, old-school commercial club, and, more important—what such an organization can accomplish and how these accomplishments may be brought about.

This conference will be addressed by an expert in commercial organization work and several La Crosse men, who are interested in the organization—as citizens—of such an institution, will be called upon to make brief addresses. The conference is to be informal, not "cut and dried" and the fullest discussion of the phases of the proposed organization is heartily anticipated by those of the Greater La Crosse Advisory Committee who stand as sponsors of the Community Conference.

Dan Weigle, of St. Paul, known throughout the United States as one of the most forceful speakers, has consented to come down here Friday and talk to the people of La Crosse about the forces that build cities.

This meeting will start promptly at 8:00, will be short and snappy, and it is not the intention of the committee in charge to make this a long, dry affair.

STATE DEPARTMENT PROBES DEATH OF YANKEE IN MEXICO

WASHINGTON. — The American embassy in Mexico City and the consulate at Tampico were instructed Monday by the state department to request federal and local Mexican officials to make every effort to apprehend the murders of Warren D. Harvey, an American citizen, who was killed June 17 five miles from Tampico.

In reporting the case, the consul at Tampico said merely that Harvey was paymaster for an unnamed oil company and had been killed by bandits.

HITS PLAN TO PUT DISABLED OFFICERS ON RESERVE LIST

Opposes Bill Because it Fails to Make Similar Provision for Officers of Other Wars

ALSO OPPOSES BILL TO GIVE U. S. PROPERTY TO THE BOY SCOUTS

Principle Involved is Harmful Declares War Secretary

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Secretary Weeks Monday opposed before the house military committee the bill which would place on the regular retired list the army officers of the emergency army who were incapacitated in service during the world war.

He further objected to the pending bill because it made no provision to treat officers of the Spanish and civil wars on the same footing as those of the world war.

Secretary Weeks also told the committee he was opposed to the pending bill which would require the secretaries of war and navy to give Boy Scouts government property having no commercial value, on the ground that the principle involved was harmful, although the direct object was good.

He also asked relief from the present law under which war veterans' organizations are granted the use of tents and cots, as the property so used materially depreciated in value, and suggested that, in asmuch as the needs of all cannot be met, congress further restrict the use of the property. It might be feasible, he said, to set aside, out of present surplus supplies, a certain quantity of camp equipment to be held especially and solely for such use.

KENTUCKY MEN IN STATE TO ORGANIZE NEW TOBACCO POOL

MADISON.—A series of organization meetings conducted by J. Graddock and C. E. Marvin, directors of the Kentucky Burley tobacco pool, will be held through the growing districts of Wisconsin this week to further the northern Wisconsin tobacco pool now being organized.

The first meeting is to be held Tuesday in Dane county with two meetings at Lodi and Stoughton on Wednesday, two in Rock county at Janesville and Hope on Thursday, two in Vernon county on Friday and two in Chippewa county on Saturday.

Efforts are being made by the state department of markets to complete organization of the marketing pool as quickly as possible. In the northern growing sections a sufficient acreage has been contracted for to assure success of the plan in those districts.

NORTHWESTERN GIVES HONORARY DEGREE TO PLANTZ OF LAWRENCE

CHICAGO, Ill.—Former Judge E. H. Gary, head of the United States Steel corporation and for thirty years a trustee of Northwestern university, was one of seven persons upon whom honorary degrees were conferred at Northwestern today. Judge Gary, who was a member of the class of 1867, received the degree of doctor of law.

Other recipients of honorary degrees included:

Chase Salmon Osborn, former governor of Michigan, doctor of laws.

Dr. Samuel Plantz, Appleton, Wis. president of Lawrence university, doctors of laws.

MILL CITY VOTES ON MILITARY TRAINING IN THE HIGH SCHOOL

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—A vote on the proposal to eliminate military training in the city's high schools is also being taken in Monday's primaries. The vote is largely advisory as final action rests with the board of education.

It is compulsory now for every boy student to take either a course in physical training or in military training to graduate from the high school. He or his parents may select the course he shall take.

SLUGFEST FINALLY GOES TO HOME CLUB BY SCORE OF 9 TO 8

Ragged Exhibition Witnessed by Fans at Copeland Park Sunday Afternoon

SAFFORD POLES OUT A HOMER IN SECOND FRAME

Blair Here for Twilight on Wednesday Evening

A small crowd of fans saw the Montagues win from the Decorah All-Stars Sunday afternoon at Copeland park in a ragged exhibition of baseball. The score at the end of the nine innings was 9 to 8 for the locals.

Joe Safford started the scoring for the Montagues in the second inning with a circuit clout, with the bases empty. A walk issued to Fitzke, a single by Haley, a triple by Franzini and Charley Weigent's double were responsible for four runs in the third. The home club scored again in the fifth when Franzini connected for a two base hit, scoring on Safford's single. Three more runs were pushed across the plate in the sixth. Chief Le Roy walked, Fitzke singled, Haley flied out and Franzini connected with another double, scoring Le Roy and Fitzke. Franzini was put out stealing third, C. Weigent was safe at first on fielder's choice, advancing to second while the play was being made for Franzini. Safford was put out stealing second.

Rosecter hit safely for Decorah in the second and completed the circuit of his teammates' clouts. Five runs in the sixth tied the score, but La Crosse went ahead in the second half of the inning. Two singles and two doubles, coupled with two errors gave the visitors their five runs in the sixth frame. Three hits and two errors in the eighth netted them two more.

Blair Next

The next game on the schedule for the Montague aggregation is to be played next Wednesday evening with the fast Blair team. The well known Jeffy Dumont is slated to pitch for Blair, with Gunderson on the mound for La Crosse.

LA CROSSE NEWS COMPANY DEFEATS LEVY SPECIALS

Neuman Effective at All Times for the Newsboys; Allows But Three Hits

The La Crosse News company was victorious in its Sunday game, defeating the Levy Specials, 7 to 4. Neuman, pitching for the News was effective at all times letting the Specials down with three scattered hits. He whiffed 13 of the Special batsmen.

Nolke, on the mound for the Levy's, was touched for 16 hits, many of which went for extra bases. Bateman, of the News, broke up the game in the third inning when he clouted a triple with two on. He made the plate when the catcher muffed a peg at home. Coughlin starred in the field for the News company, guzzling many clouts to the outfield that looked like good hits.

Levy's made a desperate attempt to lead in the ninth inning after scoring two runs. Weigent, pinch hitter, flied out to Coughlin. Score by innings:

DAHL'S FORDS SHUT OUT HOLMEN, 7 TO 0 SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Put Up One of Best Exhibitions Seen at Holmen; Pete Voss Connects for Homer

Dahl's Fords baseball team added another victory to its credit when they defeated the Holmen nine at Holmen Sunday afternoon, 7 to 0. The game was a fast one and was one of the best exhibitions of baseball ever witnessed at Holmen.

The Fords played almost perfect ball having only one error, "Rudi" Kriesmer, centerfield for the Fords, played perfect ball Sunday, making some of the most perfect "pegs" to the infield ever witnessed.

The features of the game were a long run in the high grass after a foul ball which "Bertie" Byers, Ford's first sacker, caught one-handed, and a home run with two men on by "Pete" Voss, catcher, in the ninth inning.

Dahl's Fords play the La Crosse News Co. next Thursday evening at Copeland in a league game and play the Dakota aggregation at Dakota next Sunday afternoon, June 25th.

Score by innings:

Batteries—Dahl's Fords, Groth and Voss; Holmen, C. Nelson and O. Nelson.

WINONAS FALL TO NELSONS SUNDAY AFTERNOON, 2 TO 1

Schultz Holds Home Club Scoreless After One Bad Inning, the Second

The Nelson Clothing company came from behind at Winona Sunday afternoon to defeat Rose's outfit with Lefty Hier in the box by a score of 2 to 1. Schultz did the heaving for the locals and encountered one bad inning, the second, in which the home club tallied their lone score.

Winona scored in the second when Kickbush led off with a fly to Woll. Hier singled as did Ostreum and Olson's double which wound up the slugging of the inning scoring Hier. Woll's snappy peg home of Ritter's grounder in the next instance, saved a run when Ostreum was out. Rose ended the inning by striking out.

Klandrud started the hostilities in the fourth which gave the locals their first run. He singled and Beranek was out on a fly ball to Prosser. Johnson sacrificed and Schaffer singled, bringing Klandrud to the plate. Woll flied out.

The deciding run of the game came in the eighth inning. Stoneman was safe on Roses' error and Freng singled. Shields was out on a fly to Kickbush. Schultz took a base on balls, Krause struck out and Beranek's walk forced in the winning run. Johnson was out, Ostreum to Kickbush.

CARDS STOP RUSH OF GIANTS, 4 TO 2 RAIN STOPS GAME

NEW YORK.—The St. Louis Nationals stopped New York's winning streak here on Sunday, winning an abbreviated five inning game by a score of 4 to 2. It was only the fourth game lost at home by New York this year. Rain stopped the game in the sixth inning, when the world's champions had runners on third and first with one out. Toney pitched his first game for New York since his injury of a month ago and two runs scored on him were due to errors. Score:

St. Louis	200 11—4
New York	000 02—2

Hoyt is Chased; Covey in Great Form as Tribune Cops, 9 to 2

TIGERS WIN SIXTH IN ROW; RED SOX LOSE, 8-1

Ken Hits Seventeenth as Browns Win, 5 to 3

CLEVELAND.—New York suffered its seventh straight defeat when it lost to Cleveland on Sunday, 9 to 2. Hoyt was knocked out of the box in the first inning and Murray was but little more effective. Coveleskie was in great form, striking out eight Yankees. Score:

New York	000 000 020—2
Cleveland	400 300 20x—9

Tigers 8; Red Sox 1

DETROIT.— Boston was helpless before Oleson on Sunday, while Detroit hit Pennock and Karr opportunely and won the first game of the series, 8 to 1. It was the Tigers' sixth straight victory. Score:

Boston	000 000 010—1
Detroit	102 202 01x—8

Browns 5; Macks 3

ST. LOUIS.—Home runs by Sisler and Williams enabled the Browns to tighten their grip on first place on Sunday by defeating Philadelphia, 5 to 3, while New York was losing to Detroit. The locals, as a result of Sunday's score, are one and one-half games ahead of the Yanks. Three pitchers were used by each club. Score:

St. Louis	013 010 00x—5

Senators 1; Sox 0

CHICAGO. — Spectacular fielding by Sam Rice, a high wind and Sheely's muff of a pop fly enabled Washing to defeat Chicago, 1 to 0, in a great pitching duel between Urban Faber and Walter Johnson. On two occasions Rice went into deep center and one time speared a drive which cut off runs which were on the bases. Numerous of the White Sox drives were held back by the wind, which enabled fielders to get under the ball. The break came in the Washington ninth. Rice singled and went to second on a sacrifice. Shanks fanned and Brower sent up a high fly, which Sheely muffed, Rice scoring. Score:

Washington	000 000 001—1
Chicago	000 000 000—0

BASEBALL BRIEFS

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Kenneth Williams, this season's leading home run hitter, widened the gap between his record and that of Roger Hornsby of the Cardinals when he smashed his seventeenth circuit drive Sunday. Thereby he also aided his team, the St. Louis Browns, in increasing its lead over the New York Yankees to a game and a half at the top of the percentage column.

In the middle west's major minor, the record of the Minneapolis Blues was ended when Louisville came to life with a double-edged victory, the second win being the first shutout for the American association leaders since September, 1920. Since then the club ran up a string of 237 consecutive games without a shutout.

KOLBO BROTHERS BEAT CHASEBURG ON SUNDAY, 8-3

Locals Break Tie in Sixth and Hang Up Five Scores in Four Innings

The Kolbo Brothers baseball team added another victory to the list of out-of-town games by defeating Chaseburg Sunday afternoon, 8 to 3. The locals tied the score in the third inning and went into the lead in the sixth with three scores. Two more were added in the eighth, which completed the scoring.

The contest was evenly fought until the locals broke loose in the sixth inning. Benny Vondrashek featured in the game with a home run.

WOMEN FIGHTERS TO BETTER WORLD, SAYS BUFF'S CHALLENGER

MISS JEANNE LA MAR

(By BOB DORMAN)

NEW YORK.—"Some day all the women will be fighters and not afraid to admit it, and then the world will be much better."

Rather a revolutionary doctrine, but that is the opinion held by Miss Jeanne La Mar, French flyweight and featherweight champion boxer, now in this country seeking matches.

She's not like the mental picture that you would draw of her.

Twenty-six years old, she's just a slip of a thing, five feet tall with dark bobbed hair and wistful brown eyes.

You would look in amazement at those dainty hands when she told you that she had eight knockouts to her credit in her climb to the European championship.

"Why shouldn't a woman be a fighter?" she said.

"Men are fighters, and aren't women the mothers of men, and don't men take the character of the mother?

"The fighting spirit is born in every woman. It's part of her nature.

"Men have suppressed it in her, but once in a while it breaks out and then the world sits up and wonders.

"I think that every woman ought to take up boxing.

"It should be made a part of the regular physical exercises in every high school.

"Boxing develops character, quickness and intelligence.

"It is especially good for a woman because it makes her strong and self-reliant."

Asked if she thought mastery of boxing on the part of a wife would be a guarantee of domestic happiness, she answered:

"That is a personal matter. But do you imagine a man's respect for his dear little wife would diminish any if he knew that she carried the makings of a black eye in her little fist?"

Violence is less to be feared in Russia at the present time than starvation.

WEST SALEM BLANKS TREMPEALEAU SUNDAY NO HIT, NO RUN GAME

Glamski Pulls Robertson Stunt Against Trempealeau Yesterday

WEST SALEM, Wis.—Glamski of West Salem pulled the Robertson stunt Sunday pitching a no-hit, no-run game against the Trempealeau aggregation here. Trempealeau failed to clout the pellet out of the infield.

The locals clouted Towner for eight safeties, two of which went for extra bases by Sime and Deane. The Union Giants will be met here on Tuesday evening.

For Better Citizens Better Service

TO PROMOTE the safety first movement, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has created within its own organization 24 separate and distinct inquisitorial bodies to investigate accidents involving Company motor equipment.

These bodies are called "Safety Courts."

The primary purpose of these courts is to reduce the hazard of automobile accidents on the public highway. This is directly in line with the policy of the Company to help the employee to a better understanding of his obligation to his fellow citizens.

The Court meets weekly and before it must appear any employee, whether manager or truck driver, who has been involved in an accident during the preceding week. The employee comes into court as a defendant with his immediate superior as his attorney. The Chairman of the Safety Council is the judge. Other members of the Council serve as jurors.

When the investigation shows that the employee has been guilty of carelessness in observing traffic laws, penalties are fixed and punishment assessed by the jury. The punishment is often as novel as the plan itself. For instance, a truck-driver recently convicted of carelessness was removed from his position and sentenced to work for two weeks in the Company warehouse as a common laborer.

The plan is in operation throughout the 11 Middle Western States served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and has been responsible for reducing automobile accidents approximately 50 percent.

The spirit which pervades the "Safety Court" is to inspire employees with a sense of their responsibility to the community. As in the case of the Annuity System, which gives the employee a feeling of security regarding his future, and in the case of the Stock Investment Plan to promote the desire to save, the "Safety Court" has as its object the making of better and more responsible citizens who will render continuous and greater service to society.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is continually studying methods for improved service through adjusting its organization to the constantly changing needs of the people of the Middle West.

CO-OPERATION IS NECESSARY HERE FOR CIVIC GROWTH

Value of Chamber of Commerce Measured by Work of its Members

It is said that faith will move mountains.

Cooperation will do more. It will make great cities rise where none was before.

There has been a great deal of talk about cooperation—too much, perhaps with the result that the average individual has placed the work in the discard with a multitude of others which he has concluded sound well, but don't mean anything.

It is therefore, oftentimes necessary to cite specific instances which will impress the meaning of the work forcibly upon the mind.

Cooperation and organization are kindred words. But organization merely provides the modus operandi by which co-operative effort may be facilitated and become more effective. Organization without co-operation is like a great machine which is unable to function because of a lack of necessary fuel.

The Chamber of Commerce, like many other organizations, perhaps, has a certain percentage of members who pay their dues with regularity and conclude that their duty to the community ends there. Cooperative effort means nothing at all in their lives. To them, it is a high-sounding phrase popular with speech makers.

Then, there are a number of members who are interested in some things undertaken by the organization, but only those which can mean dollars and cents placed directly in their pockets. To this class, cooperative effort does mean something. They appear to believe that it will sometimes permit individuals to get together and make two dollars each where only one could be made before.

That these types really do exist is borne out by the records of the attempts the Chamber of Commerce is forever making to interest its members in projects where the benefits are no less real because it is sometimes impossible to measure them in terms of dollars and cents.

One hundred and twenty-five members of a Bureau were sent invitations to attend a meeting last week at which transportation service in La Crosse was discussed. In addition to this an invitation was given to the public through the Tribune, which has a circulation of 12,000. Only twenty-five attended.

This may be putting the reverse English on a definition of cooperative effort by showing what cooperative is not. But it suffices to show what co-operative efforts should be.

What Co-operation Means

There is not a selfish motive involved in the efforts made by the organization in interest members in projects from which they themselves will benefit. There is so much less work in not trying.

La Crosse has many natural advantages. But her progress will be proportionate with the development of the cooperative spirit in her citizenship. Some cities are built entirely on it. Let's get the spirit.

BRITISH SHIP IS REPORTED LOST WITH ALL HANDS

LONDON.— By The Associated Press.— The admiralty announces that the drifter Blue Sky, which left Portsmouth June 12 for Invergordon, Scotland, is presumed to be lost with all hands. Wreckage of the vessel has been washed ashore. She carried a lieutenant, two midshipmen and 11 men.

WELL WORTH IT

A man lay in bed while a midnight burglar broke into his house; watched him while he ransacked the place; then allowed him to depart without raising a hand to stop him. Even when a policeman arrested the intruder outside he seemed reluctant to make any accusation.

"What's the matter?" asked the cop. "Don't you want to see this guy go to jail?"

"Well," confessed the householder, "I wanted to see how he managed to get in so late without a key and without waking up the wife and when he managed it I sort of figured he was entitled to get away with something."—American Legion Weekly.

HOSPITAL FOR PLANTS

Among the unusual institutions of London is a "plant hospital". It is organized just as a hospital is for the treatment of diseases of human kind and there are many rooms for the reception of plants suffering from any of the maladies which attack them. Anyone having a house plant which seems to be ailing or dying may take or send them to this place. The plants are received in a general reception room where they are examined and a record of the case made. They are then sent to the room which seems best suited for their case and here they are soon put in good shape for their return to the owners.

"It was a bet, sor."

"A bet?"

"Yis." answered Casey. "I bet Reagan I cud aither drink a pint of whiskey or let it alone, just as I pleased. He bet I cud'nt."

"And you lost?" said the judge.

"No, I won. I decided I'd drink it."—Judge.

In The MOVIES

MAJESTIC TODAY

"Nobody" is the tantalizing title of the Majestic First National attraction in which Jewel Carmen will appear at the theater for an engagement of two days, beginning today.

Paradoxical as it may seem, "Nobody" does the shooting which is the climax of the story, but "Nobody" is unaware of it. The story is laid in the realms of high society, but it contains an element of mystery so deep that it defies solution. Not until the final scene can anyone in the audience be certain as to how it will end. Much of the action is laid in Palm Beach, and shows how the "upper set" amuses itself—or tries to.

RIVOLI TODAY

Merit attaches to the whole production of "Playthings of Destiny," starring Anita Stewart, which opened an engagement of two days at the Rivoli theater yesterday. Seldom has such a dramatic story been told so skillfully, and rarely has an author hit upon a series of instances so certain to hold the interest of an audience. Combine these with the excellent talent of the cast, and the splendid settings and effects that have been procured, and "Playthings of Destiny" becomes worthy of classification with the best screen entertainments.

RIVOLI TUESDAY

"An optimist," says Will Rogers, who plays the role of Professor Ezra Betts, in "One Glorious Day," a Paramount picture coming to the Rivoli Tuesday and Wednesday, "is a man who can afford to be; a pessimist is a man who can't. Also a pessimist is a man who has stock in the Standard Oil company and says the company doesn't know how to run its business.

"Temperament," he went on, "is a nuisance. It's like a vodigee—if I had one that bothered me, I'd have it cut out."

Johnny Hines in "Torchy's Holdup," is also on the Rivoli's program for Tuesday and Wednesday.

STRAND TODAY

Constance Talmadge comes to the Strand today as the star of "Good Night Paul!" This is the laugh-provoking vehicle in which Ralph Herz recently appeared on the stage; the photoplay has, of course, been considerably modified for Miss Talmadge's use, but the screen version is said to be even funnier than the stage presentation.

CASINO TODAY

"The First Woman," featuring Mildred Harris, moves to the Casino today, where the play will undoubtedly repeat the great hit it made at the Riviera and Strand.

It is the story of a beautiful young actress who had a great ambition to become a dramatic star. The clever way she went about convincing the managers of her ability to act forms a most interesting story with a climax that is most unexpected.

RIVIERA TODAY

A great deal of film comedy is horse-play, but David W. Griffith in "The Birth of a Nation" which comes to the Riviera today proves that quiet, refined comedy is a big laugh maker and pleases people better than the old style crude methods.

One of the best laughs in "The Birth of a Nation" is the lovesick sentry in the hospital scene gazing at Elsie Stoneman. Paul LeBlanc is the name of the young actor who has made the unexpected hit in the part. The costuming of the young soldier is wonderfully accurate to the period of 1864. Some of the recent Civil war portraits in the magazines and newspapers are almost doublets of this sentry figure, showing what care Griffith has used in reproducing the Civil war type. Miss Lillian Gish wears the costume of Civil war and reconstruction times that are heirlooms in her family.

GREEN FIELDS OF THE ARCTIC REGION

It is the absence of glaciers which makes the difference between the North and South Poles and gives the Arctic the "friendly" disposition towards man which Mr. Stefansson has divulged in his book, "The Friendly Arctic." "If you travel seven or eight hundred miles overland from the glacier-infested south coast northward you come to the prairies bordering the Alaskan north coast," says Mr. Stefansson. "On the great triangular coastal plain of 50,000 square miles there are no mountains, consequently no glaciers. The explanation is that Northern Alaska is low, flat land with a precipitation so light that the snow which falls in winter is all thawed away in the spring." Hence the prairies which remind the explorer of English prairies. The Arctic grass lands, he says, have caribou in herds of tens of thousands, and sometimes hundreds of thousands to a single herd, with lesser numbers of musk-oxen here and there. There are the polar foxes, both white and blue, that feed in summer on the unbelievable swarms of lemmings that also form the food of thousands of owls and hawks and gulls. There are the goose and brant and swan and crane and loon and various species of ducks. When you add to this picture the bumblebees, bluebottle flies and abundant insect life of which the clouds of mosquitos form the most impressive and least tolerable part, you get a picture of a country that in summer certainly is not without life.

Unnecessary Regrets

She (at her mirror)—Oh, dear, who would think it—I'm approaching 30.

Her Friend—Patience, my dear; from now on you'll start getting farther away from it.—Le Rire (Paris).

STATE COMPLETES ITS CASE AGAINST GOVERNOR SMALL

Nine Weeks Consumed Thus Far in Trial on Charge of Fraud Conspiracy

WAUKEGAN, Ills.—By The Associated Press.—The state Monday completed its case against Governor Len Small, charged with conspiracy to defraud the state while he was state treasurer.

James H. Wilkerson, assistant attorney general, asked for a short recess preparatory to formally announcing that the prosecution rests.

The trial started nine weeks ago Monday. Three weeks were spent selecting a jury and in opening arguments. The prosecution's testimony consumed six weeks' time.

The announcement came as a complete surprise. It had been expected that the defense would require two or three weeks.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin.

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for colds, headache, toothache, earache, neuralgia, lumbago, rheumatism, neuritis, and for pain in general. Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

OIL STOCKS STRONG

Drive Against Shorts in Mexican Petroleum Results in 7½ Point Advance

NEW YORK—Trading was nominal on the stock market Monday and the drive against shorts in Mexican Petroleum was quite effective. That stock, loaning at a permium extended its early gain to 7½ points. Pan-American "A" and "B" shares rose 2 to 2¾ points and General Asphalt's, Standard of California, California Petroleum and Pacific Oil were strong. Gulf States Steel made an extreme rise of 3½ points. Atlas Powder stood out among the minor specialties on a six point rise and gains of 1 to 2 points were made by tobaccos, leathers and some of the coppers. Call money opened at three per cent.

The week in the stock market began with a resumption of the recent irregular movement. Notice served on the railroad labor board by the unions of their intention to call a strike invited further short selling. Market letters issued by prominent commission men advising caution also added to the selling movement. Mexican Petroleum was the conspicuous feature, opening at a gain of 1¼ points, reacting 1 point and then rallying 1⅛ points. Pan-American Petroleum also strengthened. Losses of large fractions to one point were made by Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Studebaker, Baldwin and United States Steel. Foreign exchanges displayed increased weakness, especially British, French and Dutch rates.

Mexican Petroleum overshadowed all other features in the final hour making an extreme rise of 17½ points before realizing sales set in. The close was firm, sales 750,300 shares.

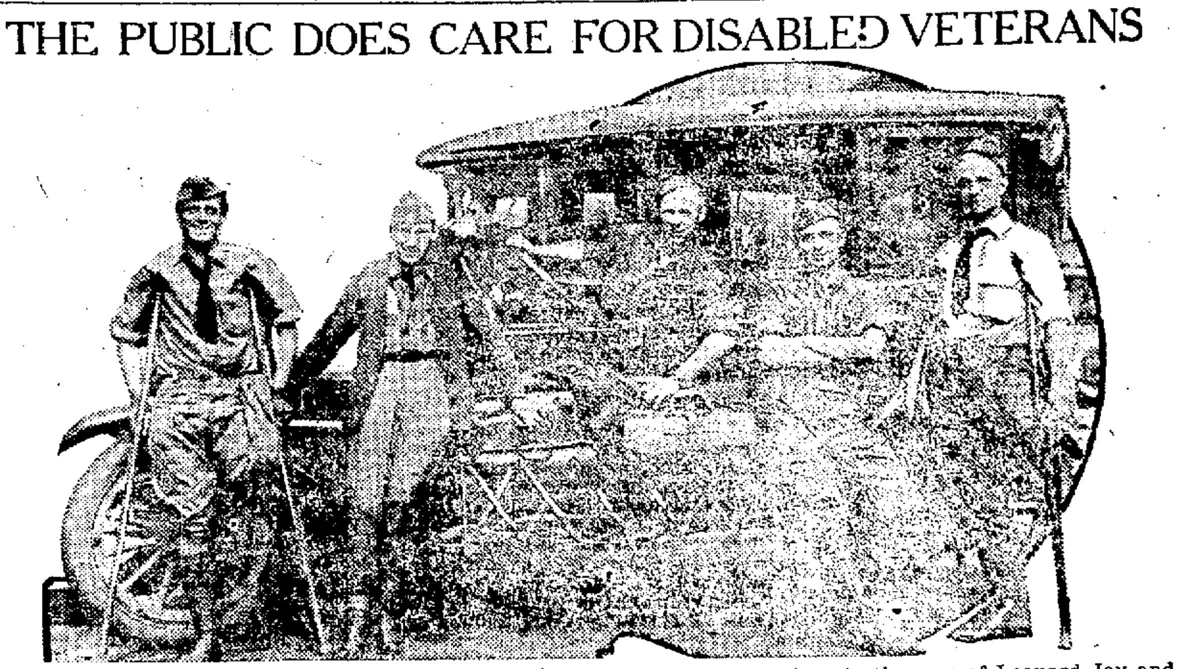
MINNEAPOLIS FLAX

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Flax—No. 1, $2.43 to $2.45.

THE PUBLIC DOES CARE FOR DISABLED VETERANS



The proof that the public DOES care for America's disabled veterans is given in the case of Leonard Jay and William Roethal, with but two legs between them. The other two legs they sacrificed for their country. They started to walk with crutches from Chicago to San Francisco, to attend the convention of the Disabled Veterans' Association. They got as far as Lyons, Ia., by walking only 30 miles. All sorts of vehicles gave them lifts along the way. Then they were overtaken by three buddies, auto touring to Frisco, and are riding the rest of the way.

WHEAT PRICES DEPRESSED

General Selling Based on Cooler Weather and Rain Sends Market Downward

CHICAGO, Ill.—General selling induced by cooler weather and by rains where needed in the domestic winter crop belt did a good deal to carry wheat prices downward during the early dealings. Expected liberal arrivals of new wheat this week at primary centers tended further to depress values. Besides a fall in sterling exchange was also given attention as a bearish factor. Opening quotations which varied from ⅝c to 1⅛c lower, July $1.10⅜ to $1.11 and September $1.12¼ to ¼ were followed by a material further setback all around.

Numerous small rallies took place but they failed to last. No aggressive buying developed. The close was heavy 1⅜ to 1⅞c net lower, July $1.10 to ⅛ and September $1.10⅜ to ⅞.

Corn descended with wheat. After opening unchanged to ½ to ⅝c off July 61⅜ to ½c, the market continued to fall.

Announcement of an increase of more than 2,000,000 bushels in the visible supply total was a surprise. The market closed steady ¼c to ½c net lower with July 61½c.

Oats started ⅛ to ¼ to ⅜c lower, July 33⅞ to 34c and later underwent an additional sag.

Provisions were lower.

THE REFEREE

By ALBERT APPLE

SUPER-WOMEN

Senorita Graciala Mandujano asks: "Who are the 12 greatest living women?" She wants to write articles about them for newspapers in her home country, Chile.

The National League of Women Voters, to which the Senorita's question is directed, "asks everybody's help in answering."

What 12 names do you suggest?

Our 12 greatest women are the mothers of our 12 greatest men. To a man's mother goes at least two-thirds of the credit for what he is. What he is not, usually, is his own fault.

COMFORT

Two of the big manufacturers of men's collars are sued, charged with making imitations of the patented unstarched collar invented by John M. Van Heusen, of Baltimore.

Isaac L. Phillips, whose company makes the collar, says that the inventor's idea was scorned by big manufacturers over a long period, during which Van Heusen vainly sought financial backing.

No matter how good a device or service, its success is at least three-fourths a matter of salesmanship. Every one should study salesmanship, the short-cut to fair wage, salary or profit. Van Heusen became successful as soon as he learned how to sell his idea.

VALENTINO

Two dainty silk garments of the pyjama family became objects of intense national interest, in connection with Rudolph Valentino's second honeymoon.

This bundle of purple and white silk was the center of more publicity and conversation than the most important of our great economic problems—which is the chief reason we have such problems.

Civilization is based on emotions, not brains.

FIREWATER

Robert Guilbert went to Paris as official taster for the Quebec liquor commission. His job is to sample various kinds of firewater, to make sure that his part of Canada will import only the best.

Guilbert reports that he is 3,000 "samplings" behind. To preserve his efficiency and make his work-day last its usual length, he tastes the samples but does not swallow them.

What chance has the tariff or the coal strike or other mighty problems when the news contains such real fairy tales as this? It would be interesting to know how many Americans will consider Guilbert's job the height of success.

He is a man in a million—able to taste without swallowing. His job, by the way, is eternal.

SPECULATING

Stock in new oil and gas companies is being offered to investors at the rate of more than $100,000,000 a month.

Since the signing of the Armistice about $8,500,000,000 of oil and gas stock has been floated.

While these figures are for face value, and a lot of this stock has been marketed below par, it is obvious that more money is going into the ground, in the oil country, than is being taken out.

COAL

The coal strike bores ahead quietly. More coal is being burned than is being mined. Reserve stocks, held in storage, have been decreasing 4,000,000 tons a week since strike started.

Stocks on June 1 were about 31,000,000 tons. Using a little simple arithmetic, you learn that by August 1 a coal shortage is due—unless the strike ends or the open-shop mines increase their production.

The coal strike will be felt more, by consumers, after it is over, than now.

GIRL'S ASSAILANT GOES TO JACKSON TO PLEAD TUESDAY

LANSING, Mich.—Escorted by guards, George Straub, confessed slayer of Alice Mallett, Jackson welfare worker, will be returned to Jackson Tuesday morning for arraignment, it was said here Monday.

According to officials connected with the case, Straub will plead guilty and it is planned to have him sentenced and on his way to prison before night.

GOVERNOR BLAINE PLANS SPEAKING TOUR THIS WEEK

First Swing Around the Circle Will Take Executive into Fourteen Counties of State

OPENS ACTIVE CAMPAIGN WITH SPEECH AT BARRON THURSDAY

Will Appeal for Election of Legislature to Back Him

MADISON, Wis.—Governor J. J. Blaine this week starts on a speaking tour of Wisconsin to carry his active campaign for re-election directly to the people. The governor's first itinerary will carry him into fourteen counties of the state.

Opening his campaign speeches in Barron county on Thursday, June 22, he will go from there by automobile to Polk county where he speaks Friday, and to St. Croix county on Saturday. The next week he will make his first talk on Monday in Dunn county, speaking Tuesday in Pierce county.

Governor Blaine will speak on the morning of June 28, at Durand, Pepin county, and that afternoon at Mondovi, Buffalo county. Thursday he will address meetings at Mellen and Ashland, Ashland county, and at Hurley, Iron county, while Friday he speaks at Washburn and Bayfield, in Bayfield county. Meetings at Hayward, Sawyer county, and at Spooner, Washburn county, will be addressed by the governor on Saturday.

The Fourth of July address of Governor Blaine is to be made at Superior, where he speaks under auspices of the American Legion. On Wednesday, July 5, he will end his first general campaign tour with an address at Stoughton, Dane county.

The La Follette republican platform, announced last week, will be the basis of all addresses by the governor on his first state tour. He plans particularly to carry the plans of his party for relief of the farmer to the agricultural communities where he is to speak.

Throughout his talks, Governor Blaine plans to make an appeal to the local communities for election of a legislature pledged to support the proposals of the administration for change in existing tax laws.

HOW "THE HAGUE" RECEIVED ITS NAME

S'Gravenhage, which is the proper capital of the Dutch capital we call "The Hague," means something like "the hedge-enclosed spase of the count." This term probably was really descriptive in the early part of the thirteenth century, when it was applied to a rural hunting lodge, but it hardly fits the present-day city, almost as large as Minneapolis, from which are governed 7,000,000 Netherlanders and their colonial empire of nearly 59,000,000 souls. On many Dutch maps the unwieldy name has been shortened to "Den Haag," which term we in turn have changed to "The Hague." As we use it, then, the name means—if it means anything after its metamorphosis—"the hedge" or "the hedge enclosure."

FLAPPER FUN SHOCKS NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS.—The flapper has dashed in again where angels fear to tread—this time into the purveys of humor! And has started a regular riot!

One-half the riot was caused by the rush to get the latest number of "Cafe Brulo," the comic monthly put out by students of Tulane University; the other half was caused by frantic efforts of college and public school officials, preachers and parents to keep "Cafe Brulo" out of the young people's hands.

Most of the flapper fun in "Cafe Brulo"—which gets its name from a drink famous in New Orleans before prohibition—was contributed by girl students of Newcomb College. But the faculty of Newcomb has barred the publication from the college campus. The faculty of the largest girls' high school in New Orleans has done likewise.

"Evil to him who evil thinks" is the defense of Helen Dymond, managing editor of "Cafe Brulo" and a student of Newcomb, who is the daughter of an artistocratic southern family.

Here are samples of the flapper fun from "Cafe Brulo" that has started the frenzy and made the last number a best seller despite the prohibitions laid against it. This one rhymes:

Oft, in the summer's night,
With some one's arms around me,
I think of the times gone by,
When other arms have bound me;
Of other lies,
'Neath summer skies,
Of other lips I've tasted;
The stuff in miles,
I spilled with smiles,
So the evening wasn't wasted.
Thus in the summer's night,
When Tommie's arms are round me,
I compare it to the nights gone by
When Jack's or Jim's arms bound me.

Evidently "Cafe Brulo" senses a disposition on the part of some students to violate Volstead:

Lives there a stude with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said:
Oh where, oh where, oh pal o' mine
Didst thou get that qt. divine?

This jest seems to have something to do with osculation and the author endeavors to point a moral:

He: Is your father home?
She: Yes, in the next room.
He: Are you a ventriloquist?
She: Silly, no. Oh! Um-mm-m—!

Moral. If they can't scream while they're being kissed, they won't when it's over.

Artificial aids to beauty have a defender on the staff of "Cafe Brulo," judging from this:

Lives there a girl with pride so dead
Whose cheeks were never touched with red
Whose nose kept aye its virgin shine,
Whose lips were never touched by thine—
Oh lipstick!

This one appears in the column of "Advice to the Lovelorn":

Q.—I am a young man 21 years of age, I have plenty of money, an automobile, and am fairly good looking, but I can't get no one to go with me. What must I do?

A.—You are either a prevaricator or have not given me full info.

The "Cafe Brulo" seems not to stop at any subject, no matter how serious:

"Violet's new swimming suit nearly proved fatal yesterday."

"Seven killed in the mad rush, I suppose?"

"No no—it's button came off while she was signalling for help and nobody dared to save her."

The hero of this anecdote seems to be Mr. Pettyer, who it may be judged lives up to his name:

Nan: "Marie said a low-neck should go well with the new pearls she wore to the party last night."

Ette: "Oh—it did—she was dated with Jack Pettyer."

Nan: "You speak from experience?"

Last but not least are the pictures, particularly one with its subject a young lady taking a bath, who remarks something to the effect that her purity may be questioned but not her cleanliness.

Some of the illustrations from "Cafe Brulo," the magazine of flapper fun which has shocked New Orleans, with the lines. Also Helen Dymond, managing editor of the paper, who takes the attitude, "Evil to him who evil thinks."

In England the first public lottery occurred in 1569.

WHITTET IS URGED TO MAKE RUN FOR WISCONSIN SENATE

Nomination Papers Being Circulated; Former Speaker Has Not Announced Candidacy

MADISON, Wis.—Nomination papers for L. C. Whittet, as a candidate for state senator are being circulated in Rock county, according to reports here. Mr. Whittet, for two terms speaker of the Wisconsin assembly and private secretary to former Governor E. L. Philipp when he was in office, has not himself announced that he would enter the primaries.

The contest for the state senatorship in Rock county has taken on special interest since announcement of Thomas Nolan, former state senator, that he would again seek election. Anti-Saloon league officials say that they are to take an active part in the contest against Mr. Nolan because of the attitude attributed to him on the pet and dry issue. He has not, however, stated his position officially on this question.

Assemblyman Alexander E. Matheson, floor leader of the dry forces in the last legislature has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election. Reapportionment of senatorial and assembly districts has given Rock county a senator and two assemblymen.

Why He Left

"Henri," said the restaurant manager to the waiter, "why did that man from table seven leave so suddenly?"

"Well, sir," said the waiter, "he called for sausage and I told him we were out of them, but if he would wait a minute I'd get the cook to make some. When I went to the kitchen and called out the order, I accidentally stepped on the dog's tail and of course it yelped. The man got up right away, sir, and ran out."
